Question: Do you recall what you were doing on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941?

Place: Stroudsburg

Time: 4 p.m.

Miss Elizabeth Martin, a school teacher of Sarah St., Stroudsburg, "Yes, I recall it as though it were yesterday. I was sitting Christmas Cards when the radio program was interrupted and the news of the attack broadcast."

Mrs. Linda Pipher, a housewife of Stroudsburg RD 4, "I was in my grandfather's home playing a game of "500." My sister, in the living room addressing Jane, called and told us to turn on the radio and listen to the news."

Mrs. Dolly Cincotta, a waitress and housewife of Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, "To tell you the truth I don't really know what I was doing but it is very possible that I was taking a nap. Itake a nap every Sunday afternoon."

Mrs. John Mitmas, a former resident of the area and here visiting, 'I don't recall what I was doing but if it was on a Sunday, I was in church. I do remember that I was a Captain in the Motor Corps, American Red Cross,an d the news of the attack created quite a bit of work for our unit."

'Day Of Infamy'—21 Years Later

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) —A gleamng white monument, catching bright rays of the subtropical sun, enshrines forever the memory of men killed on a Dec. 7 morning 21 years ago.

The monument, built atop the sunken hulk of the battleship Arizona at Pearl Harbor, marks the grave of 1,102 sailors and Marines entombed in the famous warship. It also is a memorial to all others who perished in the 7:55 a.m. Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941.

Pearl Harbor has not been forgotten. The new nuclear submarines, the giant aircraft carriers, the swift destroyers, all pipe a salute to the Arizona as they glide by.

Those who were at the huge naval base west of Honolulu that sunny Sunday remember the terrifying scene, a nightmare of raging explosions, black billowing smoke, sinking warships, smashed aircraft and a battleground strewn with dead and wounded.

They recall that the Sunday morning began like nearly every other Sunday in Hawaii—a blue, almost cloudless sky, sunshine getting warmer as the sun rose, a light trade wind.

Then, from out of the mountains back of the harbor, small dark shapes darted toward the low-lying base. They flew toward Ford Island, in the heart of Pearl Harbor's vast installations, and toward Hickam and Wheeler fields as well.

Death And Devastation

The raids lasted about 80 minutes and, when the waves of planes departed, 2,403 man lay dead. Nearly half of them were in the sunken Arizona. Another 1,300 were wounded. And there were some 1,000 others who never were found again.

Four battleships in all were sunk. One was heavily damaged and three took lesser damage.

The question this year—repeated out of the past—is: Was the tragic lesson of 21 years ago wasted, or is Pearl Harbor safe now from surprise attack?

Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander of all military forces in the Pacific, has this to say: "The attack was executed with the objective of neutralizing American naval power. It sank ships, it killed heroic defenders. It did not, however, subdue the spirit of America and the will to win on the part of Adm. Nimitz, Halsey and Spruance and Gen. MacArthur."

Pre-Winter Snow Storm Hits Pennsylvania Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pennsylvania was hit Thursday by a pre-winter storm which dumped as much as eight inches of snow on some areas, brought pelting rain and even a rainbow to others and caused numerous traffic accidents.

At leàst four people met death on the highways.

The four — Mrs. Haney, 50; Richard E. Short, 53, and his wife, Jeanette, 48, and their son, Randall, 20, all of Osceola Mills — were killed on snow and slush-covered Route 350 south of Philipsburg as their car slid broadside into the path of a truck.

Snow or snow flurries touched virtually every section of the state at one time or another, replacing Indian summer-type weather.

A seven-inch fall at Waynesboro in the middle of the state disrupted electric service for awhile and forced the early dismissal of school pupils.

Near DuBois a tractortrailer jackknifed on snowslicked Route 322 and slammed against a school bus. Fourteen children were taken to a hospital; one was detained.

The snow — which broke up a two-week warm spell — was expected to taper off in the western end of the state while increasing in Central Pennsylvania. Rain in the east was expected to turn into snow flurries.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the system possibly would dump over 10 inches of snow in the mountain area of North Central Pennsylvania by the time it completed its pass across the state.

Slippery driving conditions were reported in some Western Pennsylvania areas, but for the most part roads were merely wet and relatively safe.

Other Areas

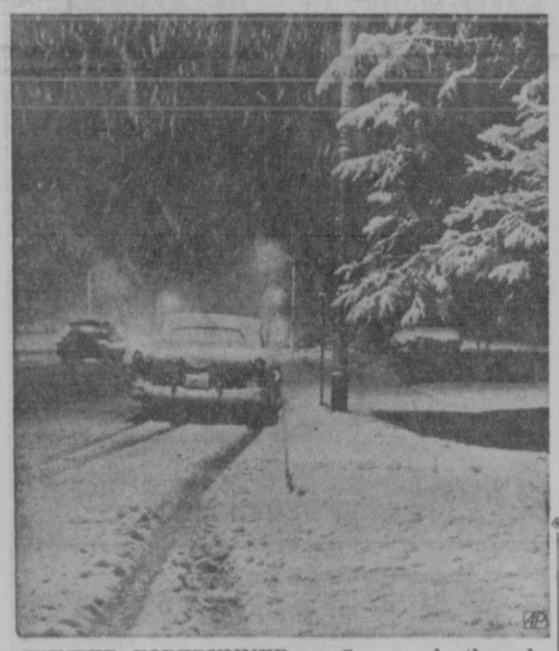

By late afternoon Blairsville in the west had eight inches of snow on the ground, the deepest measurement to that time.

Other depths: Bradford 6 inches, DuBois 3, Philipsburg 5, Altoona 3 and Pittsburgh 2.

High winds, thunder, lightning and snow mixed with rain hit the Philadelphia area after a pounding rain temporarily flooded some roads.

Gusts of winds leveled power lines, cutting electric service in scattered areas.

North of Philadelphia a rainbow appeared as the weather changed from rain to snow flurries.

WINTER FORERUNNER — Car crawls through heavy snows in central Pennsylvania as the season's first big storm dumped up to seven inches of snow. The wet snows snapped tree limbs and power lines and blocked many rural roads causing numerous accidents. (AP Wirephoto)

'Red' Flights Said To Be American Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. air defense chief said Thursday reports of Soviet planes over the United States during the Cuban crisis apparently trace to flights by American planes which were temporarily unidentified.

Gen. John K. Gerhart, commander-in-chief of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), said in a statement that because of intensified air operations in connection with the buildup for a possible invasion of Cuba, "a few high-altitude flights were not initially coordinated with our NORAD control system, and therefore were initially carried . . . as unknown aircraft."

Following standard procedures, he explained, NORAD in these instances sent aloft its interceptors to visually identify the high-flying planes picked up on radar screens. He added, "Subsequently . . . we were able to confirm that these were scheduled missions."

Gerhart concluded published reports of overflights by Soviet planes stemmed from these "scrambles" by interceptors to check on what later proved to be U.S. planes. And said:

"I want to say . . . that no Russian aircraft of any type have overflown any part of the continental United States during or since the Cuban crisis."

Gerhart's denial was one of a series from official sources but was the first to include the Defense Department's explanation of how the reports started. Denials had come earlier from White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger; Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, and Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, Air Force chief of staff.

Gerhart's statement came a few hours after Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, had made reports of the overflights the basis for a renewed demand that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee be called into special session to receive a full report on the Cuban situation.

As happened with Lausche's original request, Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., told the Ohioan, "I do not believe a committee meeting would be feasible at this time." Fulbright repeated an earlier offer to arrange a private briefing for Lausche—a procedure Lausche has rejected as inadequate.

Committee Investigates Peace Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities will hold hearings next week aimed at determining whether the Communist party is influencing groups organized to seek world peace.

The hearings will begin Tuesday and last three days.

Chairman Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., announcing the hearings, said they will deal specifically with a group known as Women Strike for Peace.

"It is with reluctance that the committee deemed it necessary to conduct hearings which touch upon alleged peace activities in this country," Walter said. "Unfortunately, the Communist conspiracy, through treachery and deceit, has established a long record of converting man's greatest dreams into tools for bringing about man's most tragic losses of dignity and freedom."

Rescue Hopes Dim; 44 Miners Escape

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP) — A violent explosion rocked a soft coal mine in southwestern Pennsylvania on Thursday, trapping 36 men some 650 feet underground.

Forty-four others working in other parts of the mine reached the surface unharmed.

"We always hold out hope but I want to report the situation is desperate," said Lewis Evans, Pennsylvania secretary of mines. He said the blast was set off by a combination of gas and coal dust.

Evans said damage detected by mine inspectors showed there was a "tremendous explosion." Concrete walls, used for ventilation shafts, buckled under the blast.

Fires Still Burning

"There are fires and they are still burning," he said, "We hope the men built barricades to stop the flow of gas."

Twenty of the 44 miners who escaped unhurt later returned to aid rescue teams struggling to reach those sealed off in a shaft of the Robena No. 3 pit of the U.S. Steel Corp.

The mine, located about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh, is owned by U.S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 steelmaker.

Some 60 men, comprising several rescue teams, descended into the mine and almost 10 hours after the blast had struggled to within three-quarters of a mile of where the men were believed trapped—or dead.

The point where the accident occurred is about two miles from the Frosty Run mine shaft at a depth of 650 feet.

"I don't know how long they can hold out," said James Girod, assistant superintendent of mines for U.S. Steel. "It looks like a long night," one of the rescue workers added dejectedly.

U.S. Steel said the explosion occurred at 1:15 p.m. The first word of the blast wasn't received until almost two hours later after an electric exhaust fan stopped.

There was no indication how soon the rescue teams might reach the trapped men.

Tons Of Rock

Rescue teams, fighting through tons of rock, coal and other debris, struggled in a lateral tunnel leading for the Frosty Run shaft.

Kenneth Hribal, a brother of one of the trapped foremen, explained that his brother is an expert in mine rescue work. He said he knows there is some sort of escape route in the mine.

"If anybody can get them out, Jim can," Hribal said.

Meanwhile, Jim Hribal's wife waited in a large corrugated steel room along with other wives and family members for some word from the trapped men.

A call went out for six additional rescue teams, three of them from West Virginia.

Among the trapped men were 30 miners and six supervisory personnel. They comprised the daylight shift at the Frosty Run shaft.

Hampered By Snow

Communications from the scene were hampered by a heavy snowfall that blanketed the rural area. Monstrous traffic jams clogged the roads leading to the mine.

Both telephone lines at the isolated shaft were knocked out of order.

The mine, opened in 1946, is under a 59,000-acre tract in Greene (Pa.) County. It is a mechanized operation.

One of the largest soft coal mines in the world, it was divided into three geographic sections several years ago.

The mine employs 1,200 men. In recent months Robena has only worked three days a week.

Ironically, the explosion fell on the 55th anniversary of the worst mine disaster on record in the United States. That was an accident at Monongah, W.Va., on Dec. 6, 1907, that killed 361 persons.

Nehru's Faith In Defenses

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told troops and refugees near Himalayan battlelines Thursday that India is building a defense machine that will drive back any new Red Chinese advances.

He told reporters later he could see no possibility of American troops becoming involved in the conflict but that some advisers may be requested. Neither, he said, could he foresee any radical changes in the arms India is requesting from the United States.

"China has done us a favor in a sense by waking up the whole country and by uniting us all," he said.

"We will not let the Chinese advance farther. We will drive them back."

Stopping at Charduar, 50 miles south of known Red Chinese positions, Nehru said Indian defenses—being bolstered by aid from the United States and Britain — were improving steadily and that India eventually would emerge the victor in the conflict with the Communists over disputed border territory. But he said the conflict was more than a border dispute.

"It is a struggle for the independence of India," he said.

Speaking to thousands of soldiers and refugees who survived Red Chinese attacks in northeast India, Nehru said India would not fall into any Communist trap that may be set by Peking's order for troop withdrawals.

Two Strunks Plead Guilty In Burglary

HAROLD Strunk, 28, and his brother, Samuel Strunk, Jr., 20, both of Analomink pleaded guilty yesterday in Lackawanna County Court to burglary charges.

Judge Otto P. Robinson accepted their pleas and ordered a presentence investigation.

The elder Strunk, formerly a clerk in the ofice of Jacob F. Altemose, Monroe County sheriff, was arrested in the basement of the Town and Country Supper Club, 1022 River St., Scranton, in the early morning hours of Nov. 26.

His brother was arrested by State Police of the Stroudsburg barracks the following day.

Detectives quoted them as saying they decided to burglarize the club because the elder Strunk needed money for Christmas and to pay for recent renovations to a home he owns.

Smog Deaths In London Reach 67

LONDON (AP) — Dense smog descended on London again Thursday night but the weather forecast promised relief Friday.

In four days, the choking and sulphurous pall has claimed at least 67 lives and sent 738 persons to hospitals.

It has wrecked transportation and caused huge losses in trade and industry.

But a Weather Bureau spokesman said it would thin Friday morning and by afternoon Londoners should see the sun for the first time since Monday.

Heart And Lungs Affected

Most of the known 67 dead were victims of heart or lung diseases suddenly aggravated by sulphur-laden fumes.

And if the pattern of the great killer smog of 1952—which left 4,000 dead — is followed, many more will die of the same causes over the next few weeks whether the smog persists or not.

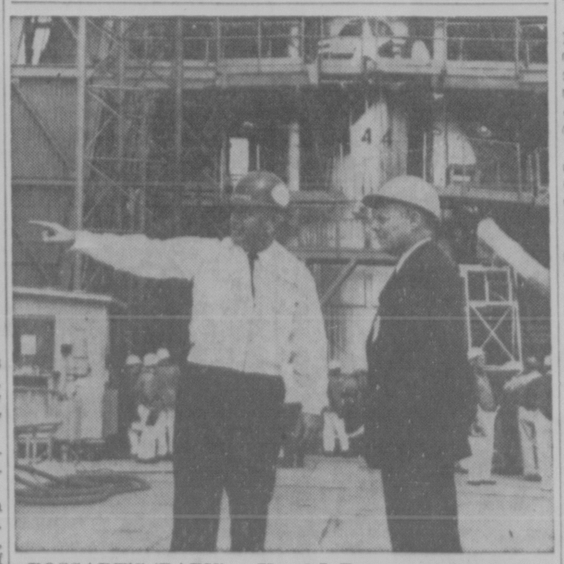

Midafternoon readings showed the smog's smoke content was five times the winter average and the lethal sulphur dioxide content six times normal. These figures were a slight improvement on Wednesday.

Outside London, two other cities reported smog at danger level. Glasgow's medical officer said pneumonia cases this week totaled 90—three times normal.

Readings Higher

Leeds reported sulphur dioxide readings higher than the killer smog of 1952.

Many teachers bedded down on chairs, tables and benches in the city's schools to be sure of being at their posts when students arrived in the morning. At many schools attendance was down to a quarter or a fifth of normal.

Last Cuban Bombers Shipped To Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-two IL28 Soviet bombers aboard three Soviet ships heading eastward from Cuba were counted Thursday by U.S. Navy planes on patrol vigil, the Pentagon announced.

Informed sources at both the State Department and the Pentagon said the Russians had told U.S. diplomats that this is all of the 750-mile-range jets the Soviet Union sent to Prime Minister Fidel Castro. If so, this would mean Premier Khrushchev is acting well ahead of his promised deadline for their removal.

President Kennedy said Nov. 20 that the Soviet leader had promised to get all the planes out of Cuba within 30 days.

Perhaps by coincidence, the 42 bombers matches the total of missiles which the Russians previously withdrew from Cuba.

Three Ships Spotted

The Defense Department announced at midday that two ships, the Kasimov and the Okhotsk, had been spotted with 27 of the IL28s. Less than three hours later, Deputy Asst. Secretary Nils A. Lennartson said the third vessel, Krasnograd, had been seen off the northern coast of Cuba with 15 of the nuclear jets on deck.

The Krasnograd left Mariel and is moving on an easterly course in the direction of Europe, Lennartson said.

The figure 42 is the highest official total yet provided for the number of IL28s sent into Cuba by the Soviet Union. They are being taken out at U.S. insistence that they are offensive weapons with nuclear capability that peril the United States and other nations of the Americas.

The dismantled bombers, apparently mainly fuselages and crates, were sighted both by visual means and photographs, Lennartson said.

Reported Over 40

Soviet diplomats at the United Nations earlier were reported to have told American officials that there were over 40 IL28s in Cuba and that all would be on the way out no later than Friday.

The Okhotsk was seen on Monday with three fuselages on her deck and made another stop at Nuevitas, east of Havana, to pick up nine more before heading eastward, the Pentagon spokesman said. Mariel is west of Havana and Nuevitas is east of the capital.

Lennartson added that the Soviet crew on the Kasimov voluntarily opened crates carrying bomber fuselages so the American airmen could inspect them.

The Defense Department said aerial photographs of San Julian airfield, on the western tip of Cuba, and Holguin airfield on the north coast show no fuselages or crates remaining.

Careless Driving Ruled In Car Death

By DON ALLEN
Daily Record Staff Reporter

A MONROE County coroner's jury yesterday ruled the death of George W. Williams, Jr., 22, Atlantic City, N.J., was an accident "caused by the carelessness of the driver" of the car in which Williams was riding, Hilbert Byers, Jr., 24, Baltimore, Md.

Williams was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident on Legislative Rt. 45089 in Tobyhanna Village by Dr. E. O. Headrick of Mt. Pocono after the car crashed into a bridge abutment. Byers was injured and hospitalized. Both were soldiers stationed at Tobyhanna Army Depot.

Trooper George J. Snerr of Mt. Pocono State Police barracks testified that there were no skid marks on the highway, but tire tracks indicated the driver lost control of the vehicle before it hit the abutment.

He said there was a light rain and the road was wet, but added that road conditions did not contribute to the cause of the accident.

On re-examination, Snerr said he interviewed Byers at Monroe County General Hospital on the day of the accident, Nov. 17, and that Byers told him then he was going at 50 to 60 mills an hour, took his eyes off the road for a minute while speaking to Williams and then knew nothing until the crash.

At that time, according to Snerr, Byers admitted having drunk two glasses of wine.

Snerr said he interviewed Byers on the following day at which time the soldier said he didn't remember the previous interview. On his second talk with Byers, Snerr said, the driver said an oncoming car forced him off the highway and estimated his speed at 50 miles an hour.

35 M P H Zone

Snerr said the area where the crash occurred is a 35-mile-an-hour zone and the road is winding.

He also quoted Byers as saying he had shared a one and one-half gallon jug of wine with two other soldiers, starting about 10:30 a.m. of the day of the crash. The accident occurred about 4:10 p.m.

Dr. M. J. Leitner, pathologist at the hospital, testified that death was caused by a crushing injury to the chest, including a fractured breast bone, which caused a severe hemorrhage into the chest cavity.

Mrs. Claude Quick, Tobyhanna, whose home is near the crash scene, told the jury she heard a crash, saw the car, heard groaning and called the State Police and the Coolbaugh Township ambulance.

Lloyd Knecht, Robert Nicholas and Arlett Gallagher, Jr., all of Tobyhanna, testified to loading Byers into the Coolbaugh ambulance, as did Edgar T. Davis, also of Tobyhanna, the ambulance driver.

Thomas Beardy, steward at the enlisted men's club at the depot, said that he saw neither Byers nor Williams in the club during the time he was on duty, from noon when the club opened to about 2 p.m. He said he did not know if they were there later.

Sgt 1st. Class Paul R. Sheets testified that his was the first car to pass the scene after the accident. He said he notified the depot of the accident since he recognized Byers as military personnel. He also said he accompanied Byers to the hospital, but that Byers made no statements regarding the accident.

Identified At Scene

Sgt. 1st. Class Afonso Camoesas said he identified Williams at the scene of the accident.

He said he saw Byers and Williams at the mess hall around noon and later in the afternoon Byers drove him to the base auto repair shop to pick up Camoesas' car.

He testified that he saw Byers drink a glass of wine about 2 p. m. in the barracks and that Byers told him later he swerved to avoid an oncoming car just before the accident.

George Graff was foreman of the jury. Other members were Elmer Walton, John G. Byrnes, Reginald Nauman, Joseph Wallace and James A. Somers.

Planning Handbook Published

A NEW 32-page handbook which describes the types of planning needed to improve the physical, social, and economic well being of American communities has been published by the Community Planning Division of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Called the ABC's of Community Planning, the handbook will be distributed to citizen's groups, professional planning and urban renewal associations, and government agencies. It was prepared by Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., of Chicago, a private city-planning consulting firm.

Designed as a basic citizen's guide and reference work on the fundamental problems of community planning, the handbook tells why urban planning is needed and describes the major types of plans various governmental agencies develop.

The influence of zoning ordinances, subdivision regulations, and other codes and controls also is discussed together with the major planning responsibilities of the governor, mayor, or city manager, the appropriate legislative bodies, planning commissions and departments, and city operating departments.

Planning is essential to sound urban development, the handbook states, "to provide new facilities, to conserve and renew existing facilities, and to coordinate continuing programs and developments."

ABC's of Community Planning is the third urban affairs handbook to be published by Sears Community Planning Division. The first two, ABC's of Urban Renewal and Citizens in Urban Renewal, have been distributed to approximately 150,000 interested individuals and organizations since they were published in 1957 and 1959.

In a foreward to the new handbook, James T. Griffin, Sears vice president in charge of public relations, notes that the growth and transition of Sears has paralleled the growth of metropolitan areas and the transition of the majority of the nation's population from rural to urban. "A chaotic urban environment can be avoided if community planning is understood and supported by citizens and carried out by effective government actions," he said.

33 YEARS OF CONTINUOUS SALES & SERVICE IN THE POCONO AREA

WARREN BRODT (center), honor student of mathematics in the junior class at East Stroudsburg State College, East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, was welcomed yesterday as a student delegate to the 67th Annual Congress of American Industry of the National Association of Manufacturers, by new NAM President W. Martz Bus Strike Talks Broken Off

WILKES - BARRE—Negotiation talks between the Martz Coach Co. and its striking unionized employes reached an empasse this week and apparently were broken off. The bus line services several stops in the Poconos.

Federal Mediator C. Stanley Clevenger, following a 90-minute meeting with both sides, said "no progress" had been made toward settling the strike which began Nov. 6.

The mediator said no new meetings have been scheduled, but one would be called if there is a change in the position of either side. The workers are members of Division 1119, Motor Coach Employes of America.

Mayor Frank Slattery said he plans to confer with Public Utility Commission officials on what can be done about the transportation tieup.

Property Transferred

A deed transferring a property in Monroe Lakes Shores from Pocono Lake Shore, Inc., to Eugene C. and Maybelle R. Barthel, Dumont, N.J., was filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder.

Ceremonies Open To Public

Tree Lighting At ESSC Monday

THE ANNUAL Tree Lighting Ceremony at East Stroudsburg State College will take place Monday, at 6:30 p.m. The general public is invited to this festive occasion.

The Social Council is sponsoring the event and most of the student body will be taking part in the candlelight procession.

The chorus, under the direction of Professor Clelland, will lead the lines of caroling students as they converge on the tree from five different points, representing the extended points of a five point star.

Upon a given signal, the 40-foot-plus tree will be illuminated by the hand of Darcy Janthina Koehler, the four-year-old granddaughter of the college president.

As the giant tree is bathed in kaleidoscopic light, hundreds of voices projected by young women and men, will herald the reason for the ceremony in harmonic unison.

First Used In 1936

It is of unusual interest to note that the present tree, which is in excess of 40 feet in height, was first planted and used in 1936. It sas been used annually since that date, according to Miss Ruth L. Jones, the senior Dean of Women. Prior to 1936, a fresh-cut tree was used but the idea of a decorative tree prevailed and the present beautiful evergreen tree provides enjoyment both at yuletide and throughout the year.

Dr. Koehler and Miss Jones stressed that the general public is invited to attend the tree-lighting service. Also, the tree shall remain lighted throughout the holidays for the enjoyment of the community.

Scranton Ends Caribbean Tour

PANAMA (AP) — William W. Scranton, Pennsylvania's governor-elect, wound up a three-day tour with the U.S. Caribbean Air Command yesterday.

A major in an air reserve squadron, Scranton is on a two-week tour of active duty with about 50 officers of his squadron, which includes some congressmen and others in the Washington area.

One highlight was a demonstration of the air tactical phase of a simulated antiguerrilla strike put on by an air commando group.

Dollar Day

Economists serving the Senate-House Economic Committee have issued a report in which they recommend that the dollar be devalued.

It isn't too likely to happen, because the present Administration like the Eisenhower Administration, has vowed not to devalue. Citizens had better hope that our Government keeps this pledge, because devaluation would mean an instantaneous loss of the purchasing power of all savings—including billions of dollars in Government bonds bought because of faith in the Government's fiscal honesty.

It isn't likely, however, that the real value of the dollar can go on shrinking indefinitely without forcing the Government to recognize that the fixed price of the dollar in international exchange cannot be maintained.

The House-Senate Committee's economists report that in their opinion, the dollar is worth 15 percent less than what our Government says it is now. This has a lot to do with the gold drain. When foreigners get our currency, they can change it into gold. When the dollar is worth less than the gold it will buy, no wonder they take the gold.

The reason for the dollar's decline in value is not hard to find. It is Government policy. Year after year, the Government expands, whether red ink results or not. The Government borrows to make up deficits, and creates new money in the process. Meanwhile, it pursues a policy of frowning on excessive wage increases in principle, and shoring up union power to force such increases in practice.

This kind of performance amounts to forsaking a trust. The Government is responsible to the citizens and to the world for maintaining a sound currency. That it has not done so for many years is becoming increasingly evident.

The new Congress should bear this in mind when that urge to spend makes itself felt in 1962, and in the years that follow. Dollar devaluation is a possibility, openly talked about abroad. It would take chunks out of everyone's savings and cut the purchasing power of everyone's paycheck.

What can more Government spending accomplish that is worth this cost?

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Price Of Peacekeeping

One of the first acts of the newly elected Secretary-General of the United Nations is to increase the pressure on the Soviet Union for payment of its share of the expenses of the UN Emergency Forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

Moscow may regard this move by U Thant as a meager sort of thank-you for the necessary Soviet acceptance of an un-troika-ed Secretariat with the Burmese leader at its head. And Americans who have been caught by surprise by U Thant's criticisms of American policy in a Johns Hopkins address may reflect that his actions at the moment speak to more effect than his words.

U Thant has urged the General Assembly to accept the decision of the International Court of Justice that financing of emergency forces is on the same footing as regular financial obligations of members to the UN. If it does this, the Soviet Union and any others still refusing to pay for the Congo and the Middle East operations after two years will be in danger of losing their voting rights in the UN.

The likelihood of the Assembly's following U Thant's lead is underscored by the fact that the Assembly has approved all earlier opinions of the court.

If it now underwrites the advice on the emergency financing the move will become an opening of a continuous program. This will aim not only at forcing payment of the contested assessments but at strengthening the capacity of the UN to deal with threats to the peace. It will enlarge further the role of the Assembly in the field of UN policing, something the Soviet Government does not want to see.

In addition to a resolution supporting the court's opinion, the Assembly is now considering another which would set up a 15-nation committee to study the problem of advance financing for future emergencies. This could result in establishment of a "Peace and Security Fund" as advocated by the late Dag Hammarskjold. And on the basis of this there might well be set up a permanent headquarters staff of experienced UN military commanders, with plans for moving into any troubled area at short notice, and with financing as wel as recruitment of emergency forces assured in advance.

The possibilities obviously are such as to cause Moscow to resist efforts to force payment for the Congo and Middle East operations. But they are also such as to inspire support from all nations intent on increasing the power of the Assembly to forward UN tasks that the veto-bound Security Council has failed to carry out.

George Sokolsky

Gilbert And Sullivan

Nineteenth Century England was full of poverty and fun, of pomp and circumstance, of enormous wealth from the Industrial Revolution and the colonies, of a keen sense of the ridiculous. Its wit was a mark of breeding and it could even employ satire, which is now a dead art except among cartoonists. It never feared the controversial.

"The Mikado" which I saw the D'Oyly Carte Company do this year, as in so many other years, is a classic not only because it lives and is cherished but because it is a masterpiece of satire. It is given the decor of Japan, but it is as boistrous as Rex Harrison in "My Fair Lady", and the British when they are gay are boisterous although they expect everyone else to be quiet and mannerly.

Arthur Sullivan, naturally an Irishman, wrote not only "The Mikado" but "Onward Christian Soldiers", one of the best military marches and all time and sung religiously for peace. "The Salvation Army" goes to war against vice with it.

Satire is a difficult art because the unknowing take it seriously. They believe every word of the nonsense and enjoy none of it. Gilbert and Sullivan loved to write nonsense and never forgot what they were doing. Chesterton understood them best when he wrote:

"It meant a real Victorian talent; that of exploding unexpectedly and almost, as it seemed, unintentionally. Gilbert made good jokes by the thousand; but he never (in his best days) made the joke that could possibly have been expected of him.

This is the last essential of the Victorian. Laugh at him as a limited man, a moralist, conventionalist, an opportunist, a formalist. But remember also that he was really a humorist; and may still be laughing at you."

There is not a vulgar word in "The Mikado" but every one has a very good time and there are plenty of laughs, much more than in a most popular Broadway musical through which I sat with profound austerity, as I had heard it all, jokes and music, in the Thalia Theater on the Bowery more than 50 years ago.

Gilbert's words are sheer satire, taxing the wit of the author but not the listener; Sullivan's music is of the lightness of British tradition and never permits itself to become "grand" opera.

Walking out of the theater, which was sold out, I heard an unmistakable wife say to her spouse:

"They didn't have enough mikes — especially for the women's voices."

So low have we fallen that one goes to an opera to listen to music via the microphone and hearing nature's loveliness, turns upon it in disdain. That lady wanted Yum-Yum to belt out her sad refrain perhaps after the fashion of Ethel Merman. And there was a girl behind me who, looking at the program, was startled to see such names as Nanki-poo. She said, it reminded her of Winnie the Poo, a book for infants written with all the seriousness of a tailored job.

I think, not being a professional critic and paying for my seats, that the current performances of the D'Oyly Carte Company are the best that I have seen in the half century that I have been enjoying Gilbert and Sullivan.

Actors and actresses come and go but the standards are high and the conventions retained and nothing is done to "modernize" the beautiful. I no more expect Gilbert and Sullivan to turn into a Broadway "musical" than I would the Taj Mahal into a neon sign — a blinking one at that.

In "The Mikado," the motif must be carried by Nanki-poo and Ko-Ko, played by Thomas Round and John Reed. KoKo, in particular, must, in this play, be as great a mimic as Charlie Chaplin and as graceful a dancer as Fred Astaire or perhaps Nijinsky. John Reed is equal to them and thoroughly English in tone and manner.

And thus, I enjoyed myself thoroughly in a century of austerity and nonsense, of seeming silliness but great adventure, the century of Victorian and Gladstone and Disraeli, when Liberal meant what it spelled like and Conservative built great Empires to be knocked down by the humorless men of the middle of the Twentieth Century who dare not laugh at themselves less it become contagious. Poor them!

Veteran's Guide

Q — How long does it take to obtain a loan on my GI insurance?

A — On the average, if the policy is "clear" the loan is processed in three days. In one instance, however, in a dire emergency a Texas veteran borrowed $4,600 to buy cattle feed and it took less than two hours. Be on the safe side and allow three days for processing.

The Allen-Scott Report

28,000-33,000 Russian Troops Still In Cuba

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, Dec. 7: — The latest Defense Department estimate of Russia's military capability in Cuba shows clearly how close the U.S. came to another Pearl Harbor.

This suppressed report reveals that the Soviets, in addition to the highly-publicized missiles and IL-28 bombers, were able to land in Cuba virtually undetected between 28,000 and 33,000 troops, including an entire motorized Russian division with supporting units.

This "elite" guard division, consisting of 16,000 to 18,000 crack troops, is still in Cuba. Its removal, together with other Soviet military personnel, is the main unpublicized issue still unresolved in the U.S. - Russian negotiations.

The crack Soviet division, located in strategic areas on the island, was poised with Castro's 75,000 regular troops and 125,000 militia to meet a U.S. invasion of Cuba.

Its main striking power centers around four tank and four missile battalions. Each of the tank battalions is comprised of 150 light, medium and heavy tanks, manned and supported by between 1,200 and 2,000 troops.

The mechanized missile battalions are equipped with 60 nuclear-tipped FROG rockets, carried and launched from tank-type vehicles. These rockets have ranges of 25 to 300 miles. The division has its own artillery, including 40 self-propelled SU-100 millimeter rifles.

CALLING THE ROLL — According to the Defense estimate of the Russian table of organization and equipment in Cuba, the next largest group of troops consists of 6,000 specialists in the rocket units, manning the ground-to-air missile emplacements that ring the island.

These units, with more than 650 SA-2 missiles, are supported by 2,000 additional Soviet troops handling the early-warning radar network and the missile-jamming equipment.

Another 5,000 to 6,000 troops are assigned to Cuban port facilities; and 2,000 Soviet pilots and airforce technicians are scattered throughout the island at newly-built airfields. Also, between 2,000 and 2,300 Russian sailors and officers are training Cubans in operating Soviet patrol craft and missile-firing PT boats.

President Kennedy is privately pressing Premier Khrushchev to remove the "elite" division, the missile specialists, and the Soviet pilots, but so far he hasn't gotten very far with his demands.

After the Soviet IL-28 jet bombers are removed from Cuba, the President is expected to change his tactics and begin exerting public pressure on the Soviet leader to remove these military units.

Until now, the President has played down this part of the Russian military build-up because "hard" intelligence about many of the units was lacking, and he didn't want to inflame public opinion in the U.S.

NOTE: The identification of the Soviet units as part of an "elite" guard was made through insignias copied by Cuban refugees from Russian officers' uniforms found in Cuban supply depots.

HARD TO BELIEVE — One incredible note was struck during President Kennedy's three and one-half hour meeting with Soviet Deputy Premier Mikoyan when he stopped over in Washington enroute from Havana to Moscow.

The tense incident occurred after the President complained that the Russians had built their Cuban missile base in secrecy while at the same time their government was claiming that only defensive missiles were being sent to Cuba.

Mikoyan, replying with a straight face, said:

"Premier Khrushchev was planning to inform you about the missiles after your elections. He didn't want to disturb you before then."

"Do you expect me to believe that?" thundered the President.

"You can't disprove it," said Mikoyan.

When the President did not smile, Mikoyan went into a long harangue, saying that Russia was under no obligation to inform the U.S. where missiles were being sent.

When he finished, the President icily replied: "Your government has no right to deliberately mislead other governments."

VATICAN VISITOR — A top Vatican prelate is coming to the U.S. early next year to push Christian unity in this country.

Augustin Cardinal Bea, president of the Vatican's Secretariat for the Union of Christians, is planning to tour the U.S. beginning in March, at the invitation of Cardinal Cushing of Boston. The two Cardinals will speak on the critical need for Catholic-Protestant-Jewish unity.

The visit has the blessing of Pope John, who has informed U.S. Catholic Church leaders attending the Second Vatican Council that he will not personally be able to accept their invitation to come to this country.

SOCIAL WHIRL — Ballet dancers may look dainty and ethereal, but they have perfectly normal appetites — as Mrs. Marjorie Post May, wealthy "society queen," learned to her surprise. She gave a party for the ballet corps of the American Ballet Theater, which has taken up residence in Washington, and carefully provided pitchers of cool milk for the slim and trim dancers. But they took one look, and after making sure it was milk, asked, "Where is the bar? We want a real drink." . . . . . If you're wondering what they ate at that ritzy $100-a-plate dinner to launch Washington's $30 million Cultural Center, following is the menu: Melon, hearts of celery, assorted olives, charcoal broiled heart of filet mignon, rissolee potatoes, string beans a la Provencale, domestic Burgundy, hearts of iceberg lettuce with French dressing, peppermint ice cream with chocolate sauce, cakes and coffee.

Maybe it was the lure of a lavish buffet and several well-stocked bars, but whatever the cause, a standing-roomo-nly throng turned out at Yugoslav Ambassador Micunovic's party on the 17th anniversary of his country's establishment as a republic. Among the notables present were Chief Justice Earl Warren, Postmaster General Day, numerous State Department officials and virtually the entire foreign diplomatic corps. . . . . A 32-year-old university president was the guest of honor at a cocktail party by Ethiopian Ambassador Berhanou Dinke. The youthful university head is Kassa Woldemariam of the Haile Selassie University in Addis Ababa, who is touring the U.S. studying higher schools of education.

The Pennsylvania Story

Plentiful Deer Season

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook:

The Woods Are Full Of 'em — The old saying that "the woods are full of 'em" certainly shouldn't be glossed over insofar as Pennsylvania's present big game (deer) hunting season is concerned.

Looking over an announcement by the Pennsylvania Game Commission this week concerning deer season (December 3-15), the Commission estimated the Keystone State deer population at something over 400,000 animals . . . Elsewhere in the announcement the Commission noted that more than 700,000 sportsmen (are) making final preparations for what they hope will be their annual date with a "deer."

That's about two hunters for every deer . . . What a blast!

The Lowly Moth — Just off the press by the State Department of Agriculture is an 82-page book ("Miscellaneous Bulletin No. 4404") all about one moth . . . However it doesn't concern the pesky moth familiar to every housewife.

The printed publication concerns the gypsy moth and is properly titled "The Gypsy Moth in Pennsylvania — Its History and Eradication" . . . Why all the fuss and froth over a lowly moth? . . . The gypsy moth in actuality is anything but a "lowly moth" . . . It is probably the most destructive insect threatening or currently attacking forests and shade trees in the northeastern states . . . The battle against the moth has been carried on in the Keystone State since 1932 with about $15,000,000 spent for control, surveys and eradication within the state . . . That's an expensive moth, no matter how you look at it . . . The 82 pages tell the story.

Return To The Pits — Two weeks ago in this column we mentioned a report by the State Department of Health as to the number of divorces taking place within the Keystone State during the past year, noting parenthetically in a side point: "although what it (divorce rate) has to do with public 'health' isn't quite clear."

The other day we received a note from Bob Stine of the State Department of Health's Public Relations Section which (for others who might also be curious) explains the "health" connection we questioned in regard to divorces . . . The note reads in part:

"You raise a good point since information on divorces could just as well come from other departments: Internal Affairs, Justice, Revenue, Public Welfare.

"Traditionally State Health Departments throughout the nation include a bureau of vital statistics or a counterpart. From a health standpoint, births and deaths are considered vital information . . . Traditionally State Health Departments also compile statistics on two other vital events: marriages and divorces."

Okay . . . Okay . . . Okay, Mr. Stine!

Gubernatorial Tapering Off — Outgoing Governor David Leo Lawrence, who has been noted during his tenure as being one of Pennsylvania's most ardent public events speakers, apparently is finally potering out — or perhaps beginning to would better describe it.

The current week for example, he has had only four speaking engagements on his schedule — light for his gubernatorial nibs, in comparison with the past . . . He had two speaking engagements on Monday, one yesterday and one tomorrow night in New York City at the annual Pennsylvania Society Dinner (traditionally an annual GOP get-together affair, by the way).

Mr. Lawrence is generally regarded as a good speaker, both from the standpoint of presentation and text — as well as ability to ad lib and inject humor or the light touch as needed.

Mirror of Time

10 Years Ago

Bruce Huffman, East Stroudsburg, was promoted to the rank of Eagle Scout at a Court of Honor at Pen Argyl High School.

The second week of deer season got underway. Reports of kills were almost equal to reports of the first day. More than 20 kills were reported to The Daily Record.

East Stroudsburg State College lost its opening basketball game to Millersville. The score 56-52.

Two Bethlehem men were injured slightly when their car ran into the bridge abutment on Route 209 in Snydersville.

20 Years Ago

More than $500 in defense stamps were sold by members of the Monroe County Garden Club.

Icy highways in the area caused 10 accidents. None, however, were serious.

Cong. Francis E. Walter announced he had obtained permission to open certain areas of Tobyhanna Military Reservation for the deer season.

More Than 20

How many remember in 1915 when the contract was signed by the state to pave Main St., Stroudsburg?

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

Keith Edinger, the Stroud Twp. advertising man, is still talking about his "day with Jackie Gleason."

Keith, an East Stroudsburg High graduate, recently spent 14 hours at the 52nd St. Theatre watching Gleason and his group prepare for last Saturday's one-hour television show.

"It was great how the 'Great One' went through this routine. He certainly is a fabulous character."

Edinger went in company with Tommy Cullen, a member of the Gleason orchestra.

"That musical group is a collection of the finest musicians in the business," Keith offered to his listening audience.

"It was a long day. But well worth the time," Edinger concluded.

Van Yetter, assemblyman for Monroe County, is pleased with the work his Task Force on public properties accomplished during their long study of tax exempt problems in the state.

Yetter, chairman of the group, said, "It is now up to the Legislature to act on our recommendations."

"I feel if the senate and assembly follow through with our recommendations a lot of this tax-exempt land will feel the pinch unless it is used for strictly charitable purposes."

Yetter is the first to agree that a few organizations get away with murder on the tax-exempt law which puts a burden on the county and local levels.

Stanley Siptroth, the Stroudsburg businessman, has again gone to the woods for his annual hunt for deer.

Not funny but true: James Meredith, the test student at the University of Mississippi, is close to nervous exhaustion and grade-failure due to the constant tension under which he studies.

In case you have wondered, magazines don't need permission to write those fanciful stories about Mrs. J. Kennedy as she and the family are in the public domain.

They met in the park one fine day. She was quite young and very good looking. He was looking through a pair of binoculars at a bird in the tree. She said, "Hi, I see you're a bird watcher." "Well, not exactly," he replied, "I'm really an orthinologist." "Oh, in that case," she said, "I was wrong the first time.

Inside You And Yours

The Snow And Your Heart

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Don't be a snow-shoveling statistic!

If you're overweight, over 40 and not used to exercise, shoveling snow may snow you under with a heart attack.

In freezing weather tiny blood vessels beneath the skin give off heat like your car radiator. To insulate your system, these millions of vessels tighten into spasm and detour blood away from your skin.

Now your blood has to be squeezed into a smaller circulation and blood pressure rises. To pump against all this pressure, your heart has to pump harder.

Too Much Weight

You'll probably bundle up before going out into the piercing cold. Heavy sweaters, jackets, boots and overcoat add up to extra pounds — weight that you have to carry around. This means more work for your heart!

Then you start scooping up drifts like a muscle-bound stoker shoveling coal into a fiery furnace. More work for your heart!

Vital coronary arteries nourish your heart muscle. They may already be narrowed — not enough to cause trouble when you rest and sit around, but enough to prevent their delivering all the blood needed when your heart has to strain extra hard.

And so your heart muscle strangles and screams for nourishing blood. If you don't faint, pain shoots across your chest, your shoulder and down your arm. A heart attack!

Guard your heart.

Let Others Do It

If you're not used to anything more strenuous than pushing a pencil, don't shovel snow. Hire some local boys who want to earn extra spending money or stand behind a self-propelled motorized snow plow.

Then you won't be snowed under with a snow-shoveling heart attack!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

There's Still Time!

Dear Abby: Is it too late to change my will? I had one made out years ago with the help of my lawyer. I left everything to my nieces and nephews (I have no living sisters or brothers) and I have since had some second thoughts. My nieces and nephews have shown no interest in me. I would like to change my will and leave everything I have to one charity and a family of friends who have been very kind to me. How can I do this? I am miles from my lawyer.

GROWING OLDER

DEAR GROWING: Either telephone or write your lawyer and he will handle the matter for you. It certainly is NOT too late.

DEAR ABBY: I like a guy very much but I don't like the way he kisses. I don't want to hurt his feelings by telling him. What should I do?

UGH

DEAR UGH: If you don't know this "guy" well enough to give him the word about his kisses, you shouldn't be kissing him.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps I am being small but we have neighbors who think they are being "neighborly" by getting our mail out of our box and delivering it to us across the street. I think our mail is our own business and no one has the right to do the mailman's job. In the past, if we were not at home, our mailman would leave our packages with these neighbors, but when I told him to stop it, he did, so we don't have that trouble any more. How can I tell our neighbors to leave our mail alone without getting on the outs with them?

WANTS PRIVACY

DEAR WANTS: Simply TELL your neighbors (in a very "neighborly" way) that you prefer to get your own mail. And, by the way, there is a law against tampering with someone else's mail.

DEAR ABBY: When a man takes a girl to a night club or restaurant and the headwaiter says, "Follow me," does the man or the girl follow the headwaiter first? Hurry your answer because I have a five-dollar bet on and I could use the money.

BENNY

DEAR BENNY: If you bet that the GIRL follows the headwaiter first, you have just won five dollars.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Markin Time

I love the early morning hour,
When all the world is really new;
Before our dispositions sour
And everywhere a pleasant view.

Stressing Yule Season, Red Cross Appeals For Blood

STRESSING the Christmas season as one of giving, officials of Monroe County Chapter, American Red Cross, reminded Monroe Countians that the Bloodmobile will be at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, Main St., on Monday from 9:45 a. m. to 3:45 p. m.

Using the theme of spreading joy at this special time of the year, one official remarked:

"What greater gift could one give another than the gift of life? What a wonderful feeling one gets knowing that he has given of himself to help save the life of someone in need of precious blood. Let us share the gift of blood that God has given us.

"Let's give it to some mother or father who is anxious to live, so that they can regain health, and continue to provide guidance and support for their children. Or perhaps we can give it to children, whose parents are fervently and courageously waiting and praying that a child's life may be saved. Or to our good neighbor; they too, may need that precious blood.

"Good To Give"

"Any time of the year is a good time to give, but this is especially so at Christmastime. Your Christmas gifts will not be complete unless you have given that life-saving blood, if you are able to do so."

There will be ample parking space on Main St. and at the rear of the church for Monday's visit. Donors may stop in any time between 9:45 a. m. and 3:45 p. m., at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

$6,000,000 Medical Center For Slate Belt Suggested

BETHLEHEM — A $6,000,000 medical research center for the Slate Belt has been suggested by Dr. Steward Wolf, head of the medicine department of the University of Oklahoma.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of St. Luke's Hospital, Fountain Hill, Wolf said the proposed center would be built in the Mt. Bethel area, not far from his family's summer home at Totts Gap.

Dr. Wolf said half the money could be provided by the federal government if private sources would supply the other $3,000,000.

He said the Lehigh Valley area is ideally situated to be the site of the center, with 33 medical schools, libraries, universities and zoos within the general area.

Those using the suggested center would pay for the services, he said. Grants from private foundations also could ease the financial pains of building the center, Dr. Wolf suggested.

Dr. Wolf is in the Slate Belt area to work with a medical team which is trying to find out why Roseto residents have less heart trouble than the national average.

Long-Range Program

He distributed a bro hure illustrating a ling-range program for the creation of th research center and showing its gradual development.

Plans for the center are still very much up in the air.

A specific site and building plans apparently have not been chosen.

Dr. Wolf had spent part of Tuesday explaining to doctors at St. Luke's the technical results of his research in Roseto.

About 500 residents of the borough will be examined in hopes of finding out why the rate of heart attacks in Roseto is about half of the average across the nation.

Motorist Crashes, Car Blazes

R. MORRELL Snover, 24, of 182 Grove St., East Stroudsburg, was involved in an automobile accident yesterday at 2:10 a. m. on Route 209, near Eagle Valley Corner. He was not injured.

East Stroudsburg Police said Snover was traveling south on Route 209 and failed to negotiate the curve at Eagle Valley Corner. The car jumped the curb on the west side of the highway, traveled across the lawn, jumped a stone wall, and came to rest after hitting the Penn Dell Dairy.

The gas tank of the car was ruptured when the car jumped the stone wall and engulfed the rear of the car in flames. East Stroudsburg Fire Department was called to extinguish the fire.

Snover was removed from the car and taken to the Monroe County General Hospital where he was treated and released.

He will be charged with reckless driving.

The car is a total loss.

'Remember Pearl Harbor'

Dec. 7, 1941 Not Forgotten Here

BY JIM SHAFER
Daily Record Reporter

TWENTY-ONE years ago today, an island in the Pacific Ocean known mostly for its hula dancers and pineapples was hit with a sneak attack on the U. S. Navy base there.

As a result, the by-word of the American people became a phrase, "Remember Pearl Harbor," a slogan for the nation and more than that for 11 Monroe County families.

Families taking this slogan most seriously were the Sharbaughs and Puzios. Each family lost a son on the USS Arizona and each of the men are still aboard the sunken ship.

Recently Congress enacted a law making the sunken remains, with more than 1,000 men still "aboard" a national monument. It is visited by many tourists of the island.

The ship is still carried on the roles of the U.S. Navy as a commissioned ship. It is the only commissioned inactive battleship in the Navy.

Won't Forget

Other men who no doubt will never forget the day, the phrase and the war years that followed are Frank Woodrow, Joseph Chiampi, Rudolph Blitz Jr., Thomas Salathe, Joseph Kinnaman, Don Hauser, Earl Snyder, Paul Ziegenfus and Barry Garis.

Kinnaman was aboard the USS West Virginia. He was on gun watch and had gone below decks to his locker to get a pen. As he was coming topside a bomb struck his ship and exploded. The explosion blew his locker beyond recognition.

Today he resides in Santa Rosa, Calif. He is the son of Mrs. Emily Kinnaman, of 514 Scott St., Stroudsburg. Kinnaman remained in the navy until after World War II and was on another ship which was sunk from underneath him.

He was later picked up by the crew of another ship. He had been afloat on a raft for three days prior to being rescued.

Woodrow, now a resident of East Stroudsburg, was aboard the USS California. This ship was one of the battlewagons tied up on "Battleship Row" in Pearl Harbor.

He was on mess duty and was cleaning up the galley when aircraft from the Imperial Japanese Navy peeled off and bombed the island installations, both military and civilian.

Woodrow was not injured during the attack and remained aboard the crippled ship until word was passed to "abandon ship."

Served With Marines

The USS California had taken three torpedo hits, two near misses from bombs and was sinking at her anchorage.

Chiampi was serving with the U.S. Marine Corps and had been ordered to Hawaii from another island in the Pacific. He was not injured in the attack.

Blitz Jr., was stationed at Hickham Field as a gunner aboard one of the U.S. Army Air Corps bombers. He was not injured in the attack but was later shot down somewhere over the Pacific Ocean. He was recovered and now resides in East Stroudsburg and is employed by Patterson-Kelly Co.

Salathe, presently residing at 4421 Don Tomaso Dr., Los Angeles, Calif., was stationed at Schofield Barracks with the U.S. Army. He was not injured in the fighting.

Snyder was stationed at Fort Shafter when the sneak attack was made on the island paradise. He too escaped injury from the flying bullets and pieces of exploding bombs.

He is now residing in Belfast and is employed in the treasurer's office at Lafayette College, Easton.

Hauser is now a commissioner officer, but on the day of the back handed blow was aboard the USS Pennsylvania, as an enlisted man, another battlewagon that took a beating during the attack.

Now employed by the Richmond, Ferdericksburg & Potomac Railroad is Paul Ziegenfus. He was also stationed at Schofield Barracks when the bullets and bombs created a day of living hell. Ziegenfus presently resides in Alexandria, Va.

Barney Garis was a sergeant in the U.S. Army and was stationed on the island.

Another Monroe Countain just missed being in Pearl Harbor during the attack was George Kemp. He left the island with his ship for a South American port several weeks before the base was struck by Fliers waving the Rising Sun.

48 Bears Killed In Pike County

MORE THAN 450 black bears are estimated to have been harvested by successful Pennsylvania hunters during the 1962 season which ended last Saturday, December 1.

In compiling the kill estimate through reports from field officers, the Pennsylvania Game Commission announced today that the 1962 harvest may set a 15-year record.

Not since 1947, when 569 bruinss were bagged, have hunters registered such a high kill. Last year the actual kil reported by successful hunters was 237 bears. The second highest kill during the past 15 years occurred in 1958 when 439 bears were harvested in the Commonwealth.

Lycoming County apparently will lead the state again this year in the bear harvest. Field officers in the heavily hunted northcentral county estimate 72 bruins were downed in the one-week season.

Pike County registered an estimated kill of 48 bears while 40 are known to have been taken in Cameron County.

Monroe County had an estimate of 20.

M. J. Golden, Executive Director of the Game Commission, urged all hunters who bagged a bear during the 1962 season to report their kill to the Commission's Harrisburg Headquarters. By law any sportsman who bags a big game animal in Pennsylvania is required to report the kill within five days after the season closes. Golden said the final tabulation of the bear and deer season harvest is based entirely on these hunter reports.

He pointed out that a postage prepaid report card is issued to every hunter with his regular hunting license but he also said the hunter can submit a report by postcard or letter.

Successful hunters should list their name, address and hunting license number, county and date of kill, the sex of the animal and its estimated weight.

Drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease!

Pneumonia, cancer, polio—we're doing something to fight these child killers. Now let's start fighting the worst child killer of all—traffic accidents. Yes, drivers kill and cripple more children aged 1 to 14 than any disease. What can you do to curb careless drivers? You can stand up and be counted. You can write your local enforcement officials and say:

"I Support Strict Law Enforcement!"

Let your police and courts know you're behind their efforts to protect your children. For where traffic laws are strictly enforced and obeyed, deaths go down! Hundreds of communities have proved it. Every community can do better than it is doing!

The House Of The Week

Interior Front Steps Feature Split-Level Plan

By Jules Loh

ONE WAY TO lick the hazard of ice on the front steps is to move the steps inside, but that isn't the main reason they were put there in this unusually handsome and well ordered split-level home.

Primarily, this innovation is another refinement in split-level construction by an architect with a keen personal interest in this type of home.

Architect Herman H. York, designer of this home, is credited with designing the nation's first split-levels on record in tract houses 14 years ago. Hence his sympathetic concern with split-level development.

Effects of the interior location of the front steps are apparent both indoors and out.

For one thing, it results in only slight grading of the front yard, always an expensive project and especially so when a split-level is built on level ground. In this house, the front door is only a few inches above the driveway.

For another, it permits a simplified roof design with what architects call a "rake down" over the front door creating a covered entry — the type of distinguishing characteristic that gives a house personality.

Besides adding interest to the floor plan generally, the interior front steps produce a dramatic foyer. This is somewhat of a rarity in a house which has the living room in the rear. Some rear living room designs suffer from a lack of isolated formality at the front door; not this one.

The house, J-50 in the House of the Week series, contains four bedrooms and two full baths upstairs; an extra large double garage and large recreation room with a lavatory on the lower level; and on the mid-level a glamorous living room - dining room ell, and a functional housekeeping area featuring a Dutch kitchen with laundry and lavatory adjoining.

The house contains 1,294 square feet on the two lower levels not counting the 347 square foot garage, and 934 square feet on the upper level. Its over-all dimensions are 47 feet wide by 42 feet nine inches deep.

Additional Details

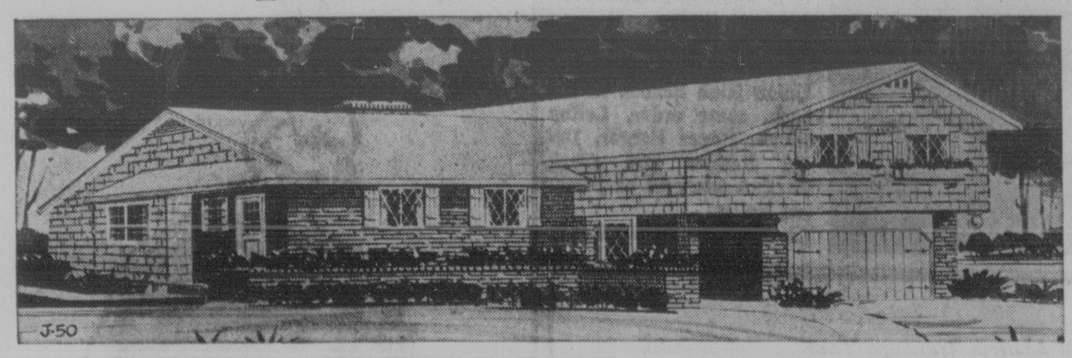

The kitchen design in this house is attractive as well as sensible. On the aesthetic side is the Dutch oven barbecue near the dinette table; on the practical side is the efficient layout of the work area. A folding door hides the adjoining laundry facilities, making a functional foyer at the service entry.

Architect York has made some other inexpensive but valuable improvements on the side of common sense.

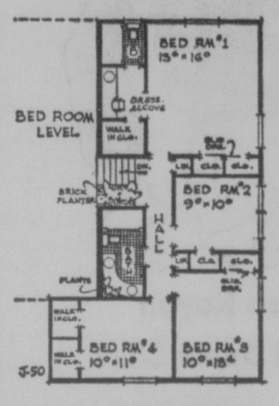

For example, the garage has two doors, leading to both the recreation room and front foyer and enabling you to enter directly to two levels. Putting the coat closet out of the foyer, and thus away from front-door congestion, is another; the built-in cabinet and closet space in the recreation room is a third.

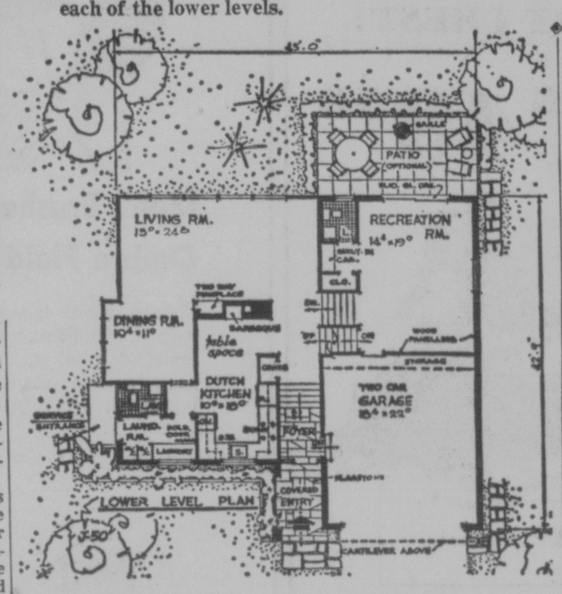

The two-way fireplace, serving both the dining room and living room, complements the broad expanse of glass in the formal living room. Note that the living room is in a "dead end" location, where no traffic can pass through it.

The recreation room opens through sliding glass doors onto a rear patio. This is the third outdoor entry (actually the fifth, if you count the garage), which guarantees convenience and ease of traffic circulation.

DELIGHTFUL SPLIT-LEVEL: An unusual roof line and dramatic covered entry add distinction to this handsome four bedroom home. The front steps, incidentally, are located inside, eliminating the staggered exterior look of most splits. There are two full baths upstairs and lavatories on each of the lower levels.

FLOOR PLANS: The two lower levels contain 1,294 square feet of living area not counting the 347-square-foot garage. The bedroom level contains 934 square feet. Overall dimensions are 47 feet wide by 42 feet, 9 inches deep, including the cantilever. Note the abundance of closet and storage space.

Upstairs are four generous bedrooms with the master bedroom overlooking the rear garden. The three front bedrooms are within a few steps of the main bathroom and all have adequate closet space. One front bedroom, in fact, has two walk-in closets, one of them for general storage.

The master bedroom has its own full bath, plus a dressing alcove and walk-in closet in addition to regular closets. Their arrangement leaves the room with ample wall space for almost any kind of furniture arrangement.

The curved double lavatory in the main bathroom, with the planter behind, and the planter adding space as well as beauty to the upstairs foyer, are added touches which increase the enjoyment of the home.

J-50 STATISTICS

A four-bedroom side-to-side split level with two full baths, two lavatories, living room, dining room, recreation room, foyer, kitchen and laundry area, double garage, basement.

Two lower levels contain 1,294 square feet not counting 347 square foot garage; upper level contains 934 square feet. Over-all dimensions are 47 feet wide by 42 feet nine inches deep.

Patch Up Or Replace?

PATCH up or replace?

That's a question many a home owner must face when his roof begins to leak or look shabby.

Most authorities on home repair agree: don't try to repair an old roof. It usually will cost more in the long run, because walking on an old roof to make repairs can open up new leaks. A complete new roof is the most practical.

Because they are low in applied cost, tough and durable, and can be applied over the old roof, asphalt shingles are chosen eight out of ten times when a new roof is needed. Applying them over the old eliminantes the costly, messy job of removing old roofing, gives protection from rain while the job is being done, and provides increased insulation.

A new roof of asphalt shingles will provide years of maintenance-free protection from wind, water and fire. Since asphalt shingles resist sparks and flying brands, they are rated as fire resistant and approved by zoning codes for even the most densely populated cities.

The attractive range of colors now available is another reason asphalt shingles are preferred for reroofing.

Asphalt shingle roofing is a quality building material which deserves to be properly applied to take advantage of the long, trouble-free protection it offers. It is especially important in cold sections of the country to install an eaves flashing strip of heavy roll roofing to guard against ice dams. These are accumulations of ice that build up in gutters, forcing water up under improperly applied roofing material. Resulting leakage can cause considerable damage inside the house.

THE gas industry's leading gainer among appliances is the gas clothes dryer, The American Gas Association reports the number of gas dryers and combination washer-dryers in service has increased from 100,000 in 1950 to more than 3½ million today.

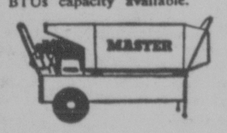

TRADE sources report that Pennsylvania, which for decades was the leading natural gas producing state, now ranks among the most promising new gas areas as a result of recent discoveries by deep-well drillers. After a century of shallow gas tapping, five new deep gas fields were opened in 1960 at depths ranging from 4,500 to 7,000 feet.

NATURAL gas may be the sole source of power in the home of the future, according to the American Gas Association. Research now is underway on natural gas fuel cells which produce electricity directly from a mixture of gas and air by chemical reaction. Laboratory scientists already have built experimental fuel cells which operate efficiently and silently, having no moving parts to be serviced or replaced.

LOOKING for patio lighting that's different? The American Gas Association says you can add the exotic touch of the South Seas to your own back yard with gas luau torches now marketed by at least three manufacturers. Models are available in both traditional Polynesian and modern styles. These torches are adaptable for use with either utility gas or LP "bottled" gas.

Interpreting The News

Possible Approach To Peace Seen

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Two men who are poles apart politically and in their assessments of history have begun refurbishing the idea that it may be possible to approach peace in Europe through all-German action.

Dean Acheson, important because of his stature as one of America's secretaries of state and his influence in U.S. councils, spoke at West Point.

Walter Ulbricht, important because he is often the Kremlin mouthpiece in East Germany, spoke from behind the Iron Curtain.

Significantly, both spoke in the aftermath of a new revelation of American willingness to use her strength to scotch communism whenever the chips are down. Both spoke almost on the eve of a new assessment of the power possibilties growing out of the strength of Western Europe as a unit. North Atlantic Treaty Organization council ministers meet for the purpose next week.

Ulbricht spoke in "surprise" over what he called Soviet Premier Khrushchev's compromise over Cuba. "The policy of peaceful coexistence demands many compromises," he said. And added: "In the relations between us and the (Konrad) Adenauer government there are many compromises."

Ulbricht kissed off the Communist contentions of many years about Berlin, and returned to a theme which had been agreed upon at least as negotiable during the Dwight D. Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit conference at Geneva in 1955. Instead of reiterating his old intention to take over Berlin, under Khrushchev's auspices, Ulbricht spoke of the elimination of "NATO bases, spy headquarters and positions of revengists in Berlin."

Importance Of Military

Acheson spoke directly of the importance of military force in Western Europe to offset Soviet force in Eastern Europe.

'The Madwoman Of Chaillot' Delightfully Insane, Witty

By Joseph M. Arlene

LAST night a mighty strange lady came to town in the guise of "The Madwoman of Chaillot". The first of her three nights visit has proved to be a delightfully insane and witty caper at the East Stroudsgurg State College auditorium before a pleasantly receptive group of first nighters. The plot revolves the machinations of a madwoman, determined to prevent an equally mad faction from drilling for oil in the very heart of Paris. In the process, the viewers witness a monumental and paradoxical clash between the forces of evil represented by sanity verses the forces of good represented by insanity. Naturally it would be unjust and unfair to devulge just how this bizarre situation is hilariously and skillfully resolved. Nevertheless playwright Giraudoux has been able to keep before the audience the serious implications behind his witty and sometimes brilliant satire.

It would be impossible to find enough space in order to give due recognition to all the individuals deserving of praise. Still, justice demands that the most significant contributions be lauded. Beginning with Margaret Mary Chelland, who plays her role of Irma with such skill that it would do credit to any professional, we encounter Gary Celain playing three separate parts which feat is duplicated with equal excellence by Zandee Wicks.

Next come three of the zanlest characters ever to set foot upon the stage, Hildy Baumann, Elaine Hurst, and Lucille Gudz, led by the ideal schizophrenic of all time played by Mary Sue Strine. These are ably abetted by President Bob Shoudt, Baron Wouter Vershuur, Dr. Arthur Morath, Officer Peter Ehrig, gallant Gary Haas, street singers Bill Metz and Charles Noradko, Deaf-Mute Maynard Pennington, Flower Girl Judy Swartz, and Little Woman Mabel Woods.

The combined direction of Professor J. J. Brennan of the Speech Department and student Director Arlene Cassebaum has brought a provocative, witty, and professional comedy to the East Stroudsburg State College stage.

The play continues for two more nights, Friday and Saturday, beginning at 8 p.m. The price of admission is $1.25 for adults and $.60 for both high school and college students.

Mortgage Or Stocks?

By William A. Doyle

Q. I will move into a new home which I intend to buy within a few months. At the present time I am uncertain if I should pay the full purchase price or should take out a mortgage for about $18,000. If I get a mortgage, I would then invest the $18,000 in high-quality stocks. What do you advise?

A. This is one decision each family has to make on its own. Personally, I favor paying the full purchase price. I believe that home ownership is just about the best investment any family can make. It's an investment in financial security and peace of mind.

We're assuming, of course, that you have shopped around and have decided on a well-built home in a neighborhood where values are expected to stand up in the years ahead.

In this country good homes have generally increased in value over the years — mostly because of inflation. All indications are that this trend will continue.

However, a good argument can be made for taking out a mortgage and investing the cash you would otherwise use to pay for your house.

If you invest sensibly, the money you "put to work" by buying good stocks may very well be your smartest move. If the stocks grow in value at a better rate than your home grows in value, you come out ahead.

Of course, if you pick stocks which have a likelihood of having their dividends increased, your income will increase. If you start making the investments at a reasonably early age, that higher income can be a mighty comforting thing when retirement time rolls around.

Then there's the tax angle. The interest you pay on a mortgage is a deductible item when you file your income tax return. Even if the taxable dividends you receive on your stocks don't really exceed the mortgage interest you pay, you can still come out ahead in "keeping dollars."

This gets a bit complicated. Each family should get individual tax advice to cover its own particular situation. There's seldom any advantage in tax dollars or anything else for retired people to have a mortgage. But for a family in which the breadwinner still has some years of earnings ahead there can be advantages.

The big thing to remember is that when a family puts its dollars in stocks rather than a home it moves into an area of risk and partly out of an area of reasonable safety.

Q. Within the past few months the Securities & Exchange Commission has ordered that trading in certain stocks be halted. I know that some mutual funds own some of these stocks. If there was no trading in those stocks and no quoted market price for them, how did the mutual funds calculate the value of those stocks so that the funds could figure the value of their own shares?

A. It should be explained to all readers that each mutual fund once a day (sometimes twice a day) adds together the value of all its assets, subtracts its liabilities and divides by the number of fund shares outstanding. The resulting figure is the fund's "asset value per share."

A mutual fund's assets, of course, are mostly the securities in which the fund has invested. When there is no trading and no market price for certain securities, the fund figures what it considers a "fair market price." Each fund spells this out in its prospectus and usually in its reports to shareholders.

Sees Shortage In Electronics Help

NEW YORK (AP)—Unless U. S. industry develops comprehensive training programs, a crippling shortage of electronic technicans is ahead, a panel of specialists believes.

At a meeting sponsored by the Cleveland Institute of Electronics, a training school for technicians, spokesmen said Wednesday this country, already needing 1.5 million technicians, could find itself short 2.5 million by 1970.

Panel members said the technician shortage will further aggravate the already acute need for engineers in the years to come.

The meeting was told that electronic sales to industry are expected to rise from the current 2.5 billion to $9.5 billion in 1975.

Yetter Unit Offers Tax Exempt Ideas

REP. Van D. Yetter, Jr., chairman of a Joint State Government Commission task force on properties, said last night his group has set up definite recommendations for charitable property to qualify for tax exemption.

The Marshalls Creek legislator said charitable property must be necessary, essential and actually used for the major purposes of the charity. It may not be utilized in such a manner as to compete with commercial enterprises.

Yetter said the same requirement applies for churches wishing to be declared tax exempt.

Murderer Gets Further Term

READING, Pa. (AP)—Edwin W. Gockley, 50, of Temple R. D. 1, already serving 10 to 20 years for second degree murder, Thursday was given a further term of three to 10 years for forgery.

Judge Albert Readinger of Berks County Court ruled that the additional penaalty begin with the expiration of whatever time Gockley serves for the murder conviction.

Gockley was convicted in September, 1961, of murdering Clement J. Smith, 41, whose body and that of Mrs. Mabel Klein, 64-year-old divorcee, as well, were dug up on the grounds of Gockley's tennis club.

No charge ever was lodged against Gockley in connection with the woman's death.

He was sentenced recently for the Smith killing.

He still faces four bills of indictment listing other forgery charges. He is accused of forging checks in Mrs. Klein's name.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

"The old woman is plucking her geese," we used to be told as children when the snow flakes came down like feathers: fat and fluffy and far apart as they started to do last night. And while I'm long past the stage where I jump for joy when it starts to snow, I'll have to admit even snow was a welcome change from the rain which soaked the shoppers. This is no time to get pneumonia.

Mesmerized by the slow-falling snow, I couldn't help thinking that the figure of speech would mean little to today's children who have good reason to suppose that chickens grow disembodied legs, breasts or thighs, wrapped in cellophane. I'll bet they've never seen a chicken plucked in their lives.

A lot of figures of speech we used to use wouldn't call up the same vivid pictures at all today. "He doesn't pull well in double harnass" or "You never can tell the depth of the well by the length of the handle on the pump" or "a pig in a poke" or "too many irons in the fire."

Which is what we all have at the moment, it seems. Why the more you have to do the faster the hours fly is one of life's mysteries. Peg Cramer had a rather unusual chore added to her list the other night, for instance. When her mother's 11-year-old dog fell out of bed and hurt her leg, Peg sat up putting hot compresses on it while Claude wondered verbally, but not really, whether she'd do the same for him.

And Ruth Dunning really got involved in her project for the Presbyterian bazaar: covering book matches with ribbon and decorating them with pinecones and stuff. She's kept an assembly line going for months. The trouble is that even when she could coax callers to help, they ended up by buying the afternoon's output for themselves, which left the church treasury richer but her supply of bazaar matches at the same stage.

Maybe today's children never saw a horse on a treadmill, but if they just watch mommy these days they could get the idea.

Junior Woman's Club Meets In Christmas Setting

The meeting rooms in the Stroud Comunity House were decorated for Christmas at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Club this week.

Christmas decorations had their place in the program, too, which featured Mrs. Harrison Taylor, of Evans the Florist, who demonstrated "Artistry in Flowers." One arrangement featured red carnations and white pompons with laurel in a small epergne, a glass container fitting over a candle holder. Another arrangement was of white gladiolas and holly with gold glitter in a large metal compote.

Mrs. Taylor also talked on flower arrangements in general, pointing out that like a painting they must be composed. The arrangement must have balance, unity, and the proper accessories. It should be light and airy not tight and dense and should have a focal point of attention.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Stanley Grace, president. During the business meeting the project HOPE was explained. Plans were made for work parties for making stuffed toys for the project to begin after the first of the year.

The "S. S. Hope" is a floating hospital ship which visits foreign countries by invitation, instructing doctors and nurses and taking care of the sickk. They need small handmade toys for the children in their care.

Club projects announced included the annual Christmas dance to be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Dev. 29. Mrs. Earl Warner urged members to get their tickets now since the number will be limited.

Plans were also announced for a dessert fashion show to be held March 20 at East Stroudsburg State College and for a spaghetti dinner to be served at the Stroud Twp. Municipal Building with Peter Margretta as chef. Mrs. Stanley Wilush will be chairman.

Mrs. Richard Hammond announced the sewing contest to be held March 15 with local preliminaries to be held in February. The contest is sponsored by the General Federation and all interested members were asked to start sewing now.

The tea table was decorated with angels, poinsettias and greens. Hostesses were Mrs. Richard Phillips, Mrs. Millard Phillips, Mrs. J. Perfetti, Mrs. Richard Hammond, Mrs. Russell Treible and Mrs. Carl Yetter.

Figuratively Speaking, Are You Ideal? Right Choice Of Clothes Can Help

By PATRICIA RUSAK

Toronto (AP) — "Why don't my clothes ever look like those I see in the fashion magazines?"

Many women, both those who spend a great deal of time designing and sewing their own clothes and those who spend hours shopping for them, have asked themselves this question.

And the answer is simple. Perhaps they have never taken the time to analyse their figure (its good points and its defects), their skin color and their personality.

A woman must consider all these factors in order to choose styles that are becoming to her, says Mrs. Loraine Scott, an instructor in the fashion department at the Ryerson Institute of Technology.

"The ideal figure is balanced in all directions and you should choose your clothes with the aim of bringing your figure back to the ideal." For example, if you are bottom heavy, you should choose clothes that will make you look broader in the shoulders to detract from the heaviness.

The structural lines of any garment are most effective for bringing the figure back into balance. "With lines, you can lead the eye up and down or across the figure to any point you may wish to emphasize."

Fabric Important

Long straight vertical lines and panels and the softer more feminine S-lines extending from neckline to hem lengthen the figure. The woman with the short figure should look for these lines in styling, while a tall woman should look for horizontal and oblique lines which make the figure shorter.

Structural lines should be designed within the silhouette that best suits your figure. The tubular silhouette, such as that given by the straight sheath dress, looks best on the average balanced figure, while the bell silhouette, which widens at the bottom, looks best on the figure that is heavy through the hips.

A woman must be careful not to choose a fabric that will counteract the effects of the line and silhouette she has chosen.

A plump or overweight person should stick to smooth-surfaced fabrics. Piles, shaggy materials and heavy tweeds, plaids and prints all add weight to the figure. Sheen surfaces such as satins, which catch the light and reflect it, also add weight to the figure and point up those features which are already prominent.

"Any fabric designs, plaids, stripes or prints, should be in proportion to your figure size." For example, a tall, rangy figure looks smart in a large plaid while a petite figure, in the same plaid, would look out of balance.

Color Adds Weight

Colors, just as fabric textures, can make the figure look larger or smaller. The figure looks larger in light, bright colors and smaller in dark, dull colors and this principle can be used to cover up figure faults, says Mrs. Scott. You can minimize the fact that you are top-heavy by wearing dark tops and blouses and minimize the size of your hips by wearing dark skirts with light tops.

Knowing whether your skin has an overbalance of red or yellow is a help when choosing colors. A person with a balanced skin can wear almost any color while the person with predominantly yellow skin will not look good in red shades, and the person with predominantly red skin will have difficulty in wearing the yellow and yellow - green shades.

Neutral shades—black, white, brown and their related shades of grey and beige—often tend to drain the color from a person's face and therefore good makeup and accessories are important if these colors are to look smart.

"Personality plays an important part in clothing." If a woman wants to emphasize her gentle feminine characteristics, she will choose clothes of soft fabrics and colors with curved structural lines. If a woman wishes to stress her aggressive competitive side, she will choose heavier tailored garments with straight structural lines.

Let's talk Fashion

Green branches don't ordinarily sprout from lamp posts—except at Christmas when everything is magic, including the brass-bound lamp post in our window, filled with evergreens and decorated with a big red bow.

There's plenty of magic in a gift from our shop at any time of the year but especially at Christmas and especially from someone who loves us enough to spoil us. Because a woman does feel pampered and spoiled by the magic of lingerie which is more than something to cover us up.

By jewelry that is distinctive enough to transform a simple old dress into something exciting and new—the kind of jewelry that makes other women sit up and take notice—and ask about. By anything to wear when it's a little more luxurious, a little less utilitarian than something we'd buy for ourselves.

We're Papa Santa's best little old helpers because the chances are we know exactly what Mama's been yearning over—and we wrap it up like a jewel. Sprouting lamposts?—they're the latest of our magic.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

"We gather together to ask the Lord's blessing", we caroled this past Tuesday evening in the big dining room of Buck Hill Inn . . . and then, 250 of us sat down to a wonderful Christmas feast presided over by our host, "Papa" Wyckoff. The occasion was our annual pre-holiday banquet which, for some reason, seemed even more joyous than usual. This may have been due to the wealth of color one saw everywhere in the ladies' gowns . . . or to the corsages of red and white poinsettias Betty Bartholomew and Edna Bush had made for them to pin upon their shoulders. Of course, the red tapers in their holly wreath bases, at the center of each table, and the red and white flowers all along the Twenty Five Year Club table helped cast a spell of friendly joy . . . but it was, even more than that, I believe, a feeling of good will and appreciation of each for the other that was somehow more evident this year. I'm not sure WHY . . . I only know I sensed it, and I think our co-workers from Newton did also . . . we all seemed closer and more "at one".

Walter Wyckoff asked the blessing, and it was beautiful: simple and sincere, with everything that need be said in just a few gentle words. Then we settled down to the hum of small talk which rose at times to thunderous pitch as we punctuated the fruit cup-to-baked Alaska repast with conversation. At the Wyckoff table were the men and women whose many years of service have helped make our company prosperous and strong. Five of them were this year's "babies" welcomed humorously into the fold by Jack LaBar, last year's addition. These included Hazel Henning, who began as a dish washer in our Tea Room 25 years ago and became its manager; Ann Williams, one of our very popular jet-propelled waitresses; Clifford Hauser, manager of Sears' plumbing department; George Mackey, who as head of our parts department in charge of Frigidaire-Easy repair, is "a gentleman of parts dedicated to a life of service"; and Arthur Bartleson who began roasting coffee at the rear of Wyckoff's 25 years ago, and immediately became responsible for more coffee breaks in Stroudsburg than any other man.

There were others especially honored among the veteran employees: Laura Fabel, Shorty Widmer and Elsie Hay, for instance: Laura, head of our Wyckoff hosiery department, received her 45 year pin from Holt Wyckoff; Elsie and Shorty received 35 year pins. Elsie was a perfect lady throughout the presentation . . . but that Arthur! No one expected HIM to be "a perfect lady" . . . but certainly no one was quite prepared for the way he sprang from the ground like a missile leaving its launching pad, soared into the air, and came down with his legs wound around Holt's hips while he kissed him enthusiastically on both cheeks. One thing the unprecedented attack proved: we undoubtedly have a President at Wyckoff's who has both feet firmly on the ground.

There were gifts for others too . . . many employees received pins for five, ten, fifteen, and twenty years of service . . . and for all of us, including the Christmas extras, there was a generous bonus.

Later we adjourned to the auditorium where Pete Wyckoff had us sing our hearts out as we went from the beginning to the end of a song sheet that did everything from Deck The Halls with boughs of holly to Let It Snow, Let It Snow, Let It Snow (which it really didn't, thank goodness.) Ernie Michelfelder of our Wyckoff Music and Toy Store accompanied us; then proved his great talent by doing the same for Jack Irwin who, with his wife, Jana Pierce, presented a program ranging from Jana's reading of The Littlest Angel" to Jack's final solo, "O Holy Night". Theirs was a program of Christmas fun and reverence.

Other things happened, of course . . . many others, but I haven't any notes. They are home on the cherry table, and I am putting down only that which spills out from a crowded mind. The party was just another of those enchanted evenings some of which come but once in a lifetime. In the life of a Wyckoff employe they come far more frequently, however, and there will always be "another year."

Follow Ideas Through To Successful Finish

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

"I know you've written about following through on ideas before," writes a Pennsylvania reader, "but won't you give us more information on why some people fail so miserably when it comes to seeing things on the job through to the finish line?"

Good Reasons

Most of the time there are three good "Why's" or reasons why some ideas never manage to leave the starting line.

To begin with, the first is the fact that far too many of us fail to support most of our ideas with enough actual effort to set them on fire. Instead, we're human enough to find it simpler and more comfortable to climb up on Cloud 9 awhile and dream a little bit about what life would be like if the idea went through.

Dreams Won't Do It

But dreaming about ideas passively, painlessly and vaguely won't even ignite a crackling smolder on the starting line, let alone a burning flame that roars toward the finish line.

Consequently, to get off to a decent start, we have to stop dreaming about ideas and start thinking actively and realistically about their w orth, what we can do about them and how and when we can set them in motion.

Ask How

Along these lines we have to ask and answer: How can we make the idea plausible and practical? How can we develop it into something that's needed? How can we make it useful to someone? How can we expand it so it will accomplish enough? And, if it's a commercial idea, how will it save someone money or make someone money?

The second reason too many good ideas get permanently stuck right on the starting line is because we're too much in the habit of answering these questions with obstacles rather than positive approaches.

For example, it's common practice to keep reminding ourselves that the idea we have in mind has never been used before, so maybe, after all, it won't really work anyhow.

Or, if we're part of big business, it's easy to stop an idea before it even starts if we keep repeating again and again that office channels and protocol make it hard to get to the top personnel who might entertain the idea.

Third Reason

Finally, the third reason too many ideas never hear a resounding starting shot is the old, old story that, both at home and at business, most of us are far too slow on the trigger when it comes to leaving our smug little "I Have An Idea" world and subjecting ourselves instead to three demanding deadlines: (1) getting started (2) showing accomplishment and (3) reaching a finish line.

Don't Dream About Your Castle In Spain—Start Building It.

(If you'd like information on a book that will help you follow through on ideas, send me your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of this newspaper).

Texas Shows King-Size Gifts For Everyone

Dallas (AP)—Texans in the gift business tried to live up to the legends of this big rich state recently with a display of big, costly gifts for the person who has everything.

On exhibit at the Gift and Jewelry show here were a space age chess set with rocket ships, missiles, satellites and rockets replacing the traditional chessmen. There were also safari or Far West sets with appropriate characters such as lions and tigers, cowboys and Indians at hefty prices.

There was a what-not-shelf that looked like a part of a Moorish castle; a table made from an elephant's head; a 70-pound candle (for $750) with a madonna imbedded in wax mosaic; and a 22-karat gold chalice from Mexico, its base engraved with a picture of the Last Supper.

There were mink bottle covers for concealing fifths, mink covers for golf clubs, and a 12-gallon ice bucket on wheels that looks like a copper-banded barrel.

For the executive's desk were sterling silver cellulose tape dispensers, pencil sharpeners and stamp boxes.

A brightly painted cigar store Indian was also selling like hot cakes at $1200.

Naturally there was money to burn. Sacks of the coin-shaped and gilded pressed wool wafers were being sold to make fires glow.

Buffalo Signs Behrman

NEW YORK (AP)—The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League signed Dave Behrman, Michigan State center, Thursday. He was their top draft choice and and also the No. 1 pick the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Behrman was the second No. 1 NFL pick to be grabbed off by the newer rival AFL. But an NFL spokesman said here that the league isn't worried yet.

"We've also signed two of our first round choices," the spokesman said. "It's too early to forecast a trend."

Sign Budde

Earlier the Dallas Texans had signed Ed Budde, Michigan State tackle, who was the top draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Both Baltimore and Detroit have signed their No. 1 choices," the NFL spokesman said. "The Colts signed Bob Vogel and the Lions signed Daryl Sanders, the two Ohio State tackles.

"And the Dallas Cowboys signed Sonny Gibbs of TCU, one of the top backs in the country. He was a future pick.'

Behrman reportedly disclosed on the Michigan State campus that Buffalo offered more money than the Bears, "and there were other things, too, that weren't in the contract."

The AFL held its player draft last Saturday and the NFL picked on Monday. Most top players were picked by teams in both leagues, and are free to go with the highest bidder.

Tops In Bankers League

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP)—The caption with the picture in American Banker, daily banking publication, said:

"Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, vice president and director, Valley National Bank, Glendale, Calif., is welcomed by Walter E. Van der Waag (a New York president). The California banker, who at one time made a reputation of sorts as manager of the New York Yankees, appeared at a dinner honoring the newly formed New York Mets, the team he now manages."

There were days this spring when Casey would rather have one Met victory than have his picture in any paper. His Mets lost their first nine games.

DOUG Sanders and Ted Kroll scored holes-in-one during the 1960 Masters preliminaries. They were playing on a par 3 course.

ESSC Grapplers Score Easy Win

COACH Clyde Witman's East Stroudsburg State College's wrestling team last night opened its 1962-63 mat season with a decisive 28-0 win over Lincoln University in the ESSC gym.

Unlike last year, when the Warrior grapplers had to win the final match for an 18-12 victory against the same school, Witman's boys last night chalked up two pins and six decisions in the eight matches.

The closest matches of the evening were between East Stroudsburg's John Hopkins and Reggie Stancil, and the Warriors' Richard Bell against Horace Judson.

Hopkins, a 147-pound freshman, decisioned Stancil by a 2-0 margin, while Bell edged Judson, 4-2. Bell represented the only member of last year's starting team. The others are all new faces in Witman's grappling array this year.

Dwight Bomberger of East Stroudsburg decisioned Dave Legget by an 11-0 margin for the most lopsided score of the evening.

Of the six decisions by the Warriors, five were by shutouts. Only Lincoln's Judson was able to score.

East Stroudsburg's JVs won the preliminary bouts, 40-0.

123—Bob Dalling (ES) pinned Winston Moorehead, 2:15 with figure four on head.
130—Dwight Bomberger decisioned Dave Legget, 11-0.
137—Robert Guzzo decisioned Art Upperman, 4-0.
147—John Hopkins decisioned Reg Stancil, 2-0.
157—Hugh Lawrence decisioned John Montgomery, 7-0.
167—Richard Bell decisioned Horace Judson, 4-2.
177—Bill Clancy pinned Willard Jefferson, 1:40, with half nelson inside crotch.
Hvywght.—Ron Matakitis decisioned Ron Krumbine, 8-0.

Hubbs Says Rookie Award Is Big Thrill

COLTON, Calif. (AP)—"This is an honor that goes in the record books, so it's really a big thrill."

That was the comment Thursday of Kenneth Douglas Hubbs, named the 1962 National League rookie of the year.

The rangy second baseman for the Chicago Cubs said he owed a lot to the tutelage of Cub coaches Bobby Adams, Lou Klein and Rip Collins in the Arizona Instructional League last winter.

"They gave me a tremendous amount of confidence to the point where I began to think I could make the grade," said Ken.

Broke Two Records

Hubbs broke two major league records for second basemen set by Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox in 1948. He went 78 consecutive games without an error and handled 418 successive chances without a miscue. Doerr had strings of 72 games and 414 chances.

The 6-foot-2, 180-pound Hubbs was named top rookie Wednesday receiving all but one of 20 votes cast by a panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Devout Mormon

A devout Mormon, Hubbs, who will be 21 Dec. 23, attends church each Sunday and reports happily that he has found a Mormon church in each city in the National League.

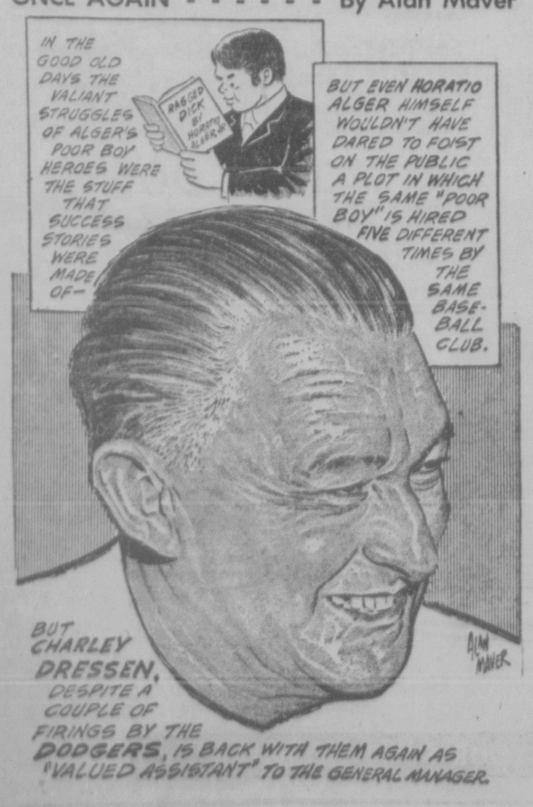

Hubbs is the son of a Colton insurance executive, Eulis Hubbs, who also was a star athlete at Colton High. But the elder Hubbs dreams of an athletic career were cut short by polio, which has kept him in a wheelchair for more than 20 years.

But West Has Heft

East Has The All-Americas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The East team will have the All-Americas for the 1962 Shrine East-West football game played here Dec. 29, but the West has the heft.

Back George Saimes of Michigan State and Don Brumm, Purdue guard, both East squad members, will be the All-Americas on the field.

Outweighs East

But the West line outweighs the East line, 224-216 pounds on the average. The entire West team outweighs the East squad, 213-210 pounds, although the West has one less lineman on the roster.

Last year, the East had the names, including All-America backs Ernie Davis and Bob Ferguson, but the West won in Kezar Stadium, 21-8. The West leads the series, 17-15, with 4 ties.

Missouri's Dan Devine coaches the West.

The squads report Dec. 19 with the West at Stanford and the East at Santa Clara.

The East team, coached by Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, is mostly midwestern.

Rams' Coach Says Hofstra Is Like Pros

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Coach Jim Bonder of West Chester State College Thursday sized up Hofstra, Saturday's Cement Bowl opponent, as the "closest college team to the pros I've seen in the East."

"This gang throws the ball," Bonder said of the football team from Hempstead, N. Y., which will help inaugurate the first annual Cement Bowl in Allentown.

"Since they had a pro offense" continued Bonder, "The most logical thing to do was develop a pro defense, take the skills we had all season and adjust them to pro defense."

Exchange Films

Bonder, who exchanged game films with Hofstra Coach Howdy Myers, said there will be at least six outstanding players in the game, three from each team.

Bonder singled out his players as fullback Joe Iacone, end Max Micson and quarterback Terry Ebely, a left-handed passer.

Iacone, a little All-America selection and top Pennsylvania scorer with 98 points, helped lead West Chester to a 7-2 record. He gained 1,392 yards rushing to rank among the top ground gainers in the nation. Iacone, a three time All-State choice and a draft pick of the Philadelphia Eagles, will be playing his last college game.

Micsion's pass receiving netted West Chester more than 900 yards and nine touchdowns.

Pass A Lot

"I like to think we have a balanced ofense," said Bonder. "But if they (Hofstra) have 60 plays, 48 of them will be passes."

Bonder cited Hofstra's three outstanding players as quarterback Len Garille, end Terry Kosens and back Ron Zoia.

Zoia, Bonder pointed out, plays left halfback, right halfback, quarterback and sometimes end, and calls all of Hofstra's plays. Hofstra uses a T-formation with split ends and the backs in the slot.

"We're ready mentally and physically," said Bonder. "I never predict. If we lose it's going to take a hell of a lot of Hofstra to lick us. It will be one hell of a game."

Both teams are scheduled to arrive in Allentown Friday.

Hofstra has an 8-1 record.

Cage Fixers Get Reward In Court

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Two admitted basketball game fixers who turned state's evidence and helped convict two "higher ups" in the gambling racket got their reward in Wake County Superior Court Thursday.

This came when Superior Court Judge Heman Clark withheld final judgment for bribers Aaron Wagman and Joseph Green, both of New York. The jurist specified they will not receive active sentences here if they get "substantial" sentences elsewhere.

Key Witnesses

The two were key witnesses in prosecution testimony that brought about the conviction Tuesday of David Goldberg, 49, and Steve Lekometros, 36, both of St. Louis, alleged kingpins in basketball fixing. Goldberg and Lekometros were sentenced to five years in prison and ordered to pay fines totaling $30,000. They gave notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Another New Yorker, Paul Walker, 31, was sentenced to 18 months in prison. Judge Clark made the sentence active after first indicating he would consider Walker for probation.

Later Wagman and Green were taken to nearby Durham where they had pleaded guilty last week to similar bribery charges. Superior Court Judge Henry A. McKinnon also continued judgement pending sentences elsewhere.

In addition, Wagman already is under a 5-year sentence in Florida, faces a 5-to 10-year term in New York, and a warrant has been issued for him in Philadelphia. Green has pleaded guilty in New York to charges on which he could get 10 to 20 years.

Brother Called Turn

NEW YORK (AP)—Just before the season started, St. Louis Cardinal third baseman Ken Boyer had this to say about Clete Boyer, his younger brother who plays third base for the Yankees: "I think he's just now getting to the stage in his career where he will hit pretty good. He is getting to know the pitchers better. He missed two years by sitting on the bench because of his bonus."

In Clete Boyer's first nine games with the Yankees he led the champinos with a .448 batting average on 13 hits.

It's Not Like College

Defense In Pros Makes Difference

NEW YORK (AP)—What's the most impressive thing about the National Basketball Association brand of play, to a couple of rookie college All-America stars?

The answer might startle those fans who think of the NBA only as a pot-shooting rat race.

It's defense.

"They say they don't play defense in this league," said Len Chappell, Wake Forest ace now with the Syracuse Nationals. "But the great defensive play is the main difference between the colleges and the pros.

Switch Off

"You no sooner get by one big guy than there's another one in your way. They switch off real good, help each other out on defense."

The same sentiments came from Chet Walker, Bradley All-America and a Syracuse team mate.

"The men in the league are so much larger and so much more active than the ones you play in college. It's a lot rougher under the boards, and harder to get your shot off."

Lands Two

Syracuse landed two of the four All-Americas who joined the league. Of the others, Jerry Lucas of Ohio State is sitting out the season. Terry Dischenger of Purdue and Bill McGill of Utah are with the Chicago Zephyrs. Dischinger, playing only on weekends, has a 25.5 a game scoring average. McGill is starting to score after a slow start.

Syracuse coach Alex Hannum said his two All-Americas are working their way onto the team, although they haven't set the NBA on fire.

"Walker has been going a little better than Chappell," Hannum said. "Len was hurt right after the season started and it's taken him a long time to get going again."

Walker, 6-6, has an 11-point a game average. Chappell, 6-8, has 6.5.

At Coral Gables

Ex-Airman Takes Golf Open Lead

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—Playing his first PGA tournament, Al Kelley, just out of the Air Force, led a field of 159 in the 72-hole, $20,000 Coral Gables Open Thursday with an opening round 6-under-par 65.

Kelley, slender 27-year-old native of Akron, Ohio, playing out of Coral Gables, collected seven birdies in carding 32-33. He turned pro less than two months ago.

Stroke Behind

Dave Ragan of Sun City, Fla., missed a 12-foot upgrade putt on his last green to come in a stroke behind Kelley, his childhood pal. Ragan was 33 in and 33 out.

Kelley and Ragan, winner of last week's West Palm Beach Open and currently one of the hottest competitors on the circuit, learned to play golf together in Orlando, Fla.

Two strokes behind at 67 were Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex. and Bill Collins of Miami, both 33-34.

In all, 33 pros bettered par 35-36—71 on the windy, sunny 6,536-yard Biltmore course.

Tie At 68

Ed Furgol of Export, Pa., and Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., tied at 68. Furgol blazed a 31 out and came home with a 37. Brewer was 33-35.

Low amateurs, all with 74s, were Gibby Gilbert, Hollywood, Fla., 36-38; James Grant, Wethersfield, Conn., 39-35, and Gib Larson, Milwaukee 36-38.

Al Balding of Markland Wood, Canada, the Pro-Am medalist at 65, was one of 16 knotted at 70.

Seek Second Victory

Warrior Cagers Play Bloomsburg

THE WARRIOR cagers of East Stroudsburg State College shoot for their second win in three contests tonight when they tangle with Bloomsburg on the Huskies court.

Coach Mort Hochheiser's quintet would like to make it two in a row after Wednesday's 69-51 win over Ceyney in the Warriors' first home appearance of the young season. East Stroudsburg fell to Montclair last Saturday in the season's opener.

In both games thus far, the Warriors' John Murphy has lived up to pre-season expectations by leading the club in scoring. He notched 27 against Montclair and again led the team Wednesday by hitting for 18 points, giving him a two-game total of 45, a game average of 22.5.

Murphy, last season, averaged 15.5 points per game, totaling 325 points in 21 games. He was second in the scoring department to the graduated Russ Hopewell who scored 395 points, averaging 18.8 per game.

Reese Shows Well

Burt Reese also played a fine game for the Hochheiser hoopsters against Cheyney, totaling 13 on six field goals and one free throw.

For Bloomsburg, tonight 's game is the first on their own court after four consecutive road trips.

Coach Bill Foster describes his club as "up and down. . . play thus far has been very sporadic—at times we've looked very good, but we tend to fall back into a mediocre type of performance."

According to Foster, occasional display of "complacent defense and poor handling has prevented the Huskies from developing their most effective style of play."

Burris Denies He'll Boss Minor Loops

DENVER (AP)—James H. Burris, president of the American Association until it folded last month, denied Thursday reports he might become boss of minor baseball leagues.

Earl Ruby, sports editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, carried the report in his column.

After the association collapsed with its teams divided between the International and Pacific Coast Leagues, Burris was appointed a pesonal representative of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

George Trautman of Columbus is president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, representing the minor leagues.

Four Schools Play Tonight

THREE AREA scholastic basketball teams will be out to avoid their first defeat of the reason while two others who have not yet won meet each other in court action among Slate Belt and Pocono quintets tonight.

Pocono Mountain's Cardinals, Bangor's Slaters and the Green Knights of Pen Argyl all opened the young cage season with victories while Pius X and Pleasant Valley will be seeking their first win of the campaign when they clash head-on at the Pleasant Valley floor in Brodheadsville.

Most Impressive

Coach Harry Werkheiser's Pocono Mountain combine — winners of 15 of 20 court battles last year—have been the most impressive in their only tussle thus far among area teams with a 90-55 season-opening success over Hawley earlier this week.

John Ryan ripped the cords for 34 points in that contest—highest among scholastic cagers —while his twin brother, Norbert, tallied 23 as the two combined to outscore the entire Hawley squad. Dave Ruhlman also broke into the double figures for the Cards with 12 in that game.

The Cards tonight are on the road once again as they travel to Weatherly in hopes of gaining their second win of the season.

Bangor On Road

Bangor, meanwhile, which opened its campaign with a 51-39 thumping of Lehighton on the Slaters' new court will be at Northampton for their second tussle of the season. Tom Moyer was high scorer for Coach Bill Pensyl's squad as he tallied 18.

Coach Frank Vari's Pen Argyl unit will be bussing to Coplay this evening in search of their second win of the season after toppling Northwestern last Friday, 62-44, as Geoffrey Rader bombed the nets for a 25-point output.

Either Pius X or Pleasant Valley will get on the winning side of the ledger tonight as they meet each other. The Royals of Coach John Thomas have an 0-1 record following their opening loss Thursday to Summit Hill by a 61-40 count as only four Royals hit the scoring column. Al DeRenzis scored 20 in a losing cause.

The Bears of Coach Bill Frear, meanwhile, have dropped both their games thus far as they fell victims to Southern Wayne and East Stroudsburg. Tonight marks their first game at home.

Richardson To Play In Bowl

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Willie Richardson, a first string end on The Associated Press Little All America team, was named Thursday to play in the fifth annual All American Bowl Dec. 29 in Tucson.

The Jackson, Miss., State College player will be on the small school team.

Dave Behrman, center from Michigan State also has accepted a bid to the game. He'll play with the major school team.

Kilmer Lost To 49ers For Season

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Versatile 49er halfback Bill Kilmer is lost to the San Francisco National Football League club for the remainder of this season and, until a compound leg fracture heals, it won't be known when the former UCLA star will play again.

"We are very hopeful of having Kilmer back next season but we'll just have to wait and see when the cast comes off," a club spokesman said after talking with team Dr. Lloyd Milburn.

The talented running and passing back was injured Wednesday night when the car he was driving went out of control and careened off a freeway in suburban Belmont, winding up across a field in a water-filled gully.

Resurgent Eagles Set For Steelers

PITTSURGH's second place Steelers (7-5), fighting for a place in the Runner-Up Bowl at Miami, Fla., come to grips with a resurgent flock of Eagles (3-8-1) Sunday at Franklin Field.

A near capacity throng is expected for the intra-state battle which will start at 1:05 p.m., one half hour earlier than usual. The game will be broadcast over the Eagles' radio network originating with Station WCAU and telecast back to the Pittsburgh area.

Providing the musical entertainment for this, the 1962 home finale for the Birds, will be the Virginia State College band from Petersburg, Va., one of the finest in the land.

Plaque For Carr

Eagles' defensive halfback Jimmy Carr will receive a plaque, emblematic of his nomination to the NAIA Hall of Fame, at halftime. Gene Hester, athelitic director at California (Pa.) State College and District Chairman of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, will make the presentation to Carr who gained the honor for his exploits at Morris Harvey College and with the Eagles.

Pittsburgh will be favored to halt the Eagles' two-game win streak and beat the Birds for the second time this season. Nine weeks ago in Pittsburgh, the Eagles lost 13-7.

Handicapped all season by an unprecedented siege of broken bones, the locals will be hurting again Sunday with the loss of their star defensive back, Don Burroughs, who is out for the last two games with two fractured ribs. Rookie Mike McClellan will start in Don's safety spot.

Two field goals by Lou Michaels and 132 yards rushing by John Henry Johnson beat the Eagles in their last meeting and last week Michaels kicked four to beat St. Louis. Johnson is now the league's second best rusher, gaining 1,016 yards to 1,239 by the Packers' Jim Taylor.

The Eagles have come a long way in their last three outings. The return to action by Pete Retzlaf at the right end has put new life into the attack which whipped Dallas (28-14) and clobbered Washington (37-14) after losing a 19-14 heartbreaker to New York. All this since the 49-0 loss to Green Bay.

Eagles' head coach Nick Skorich still is concerned about the full-time availability of his top back Tim Brown who suffered a badly sprained knee last Sunday. Timmy is expected to start but isn't expected to be at full strength.

Armstrong's 4th Title Everlasting

By MIKE RECHT

ST LOUIS (AP) — Henry Armstrong, the only boxer ever to hold three world titles at the same time, gained his fourth and most important crown after he left the ring. For the last 13 years Armstrong has been an ordained Baptist minister.

"It's the most important title I've ever had," says Armstrong, who won the featherweight, welterweight and lightweight crowns within 13 months, "because it's everlasting. It tells me where I'm going and what I'm doing.

"The boxing, and the titles and the money I made from them were part of my life—a good part —but I was meant to be a minister and that's why all those things were taken away from me."

He almost did not make the pulpit.

After retiring from boxing in 1945, the titles were gone, and soon the money also went for short term friends, big tips and whisky.

Armstrong woke up from the nightmare in a Los Angeles drunk tank one day in 1949. The judge, Mrs. Ida May Adams, was a boxing fan and was astounded at the sight of Armstrong.

"Henry Armstrong, you're letting a million boys down," the judge said.

"It hit me like a sledge hammer, right between the eyes," Armstrong recalls. "From then on things got better slowly."

His mother and grandmother had wanted him to be a preacher, not a fighter. He began to read the Bible and then he started preaching.

By 1951 he had earned his fourth title.

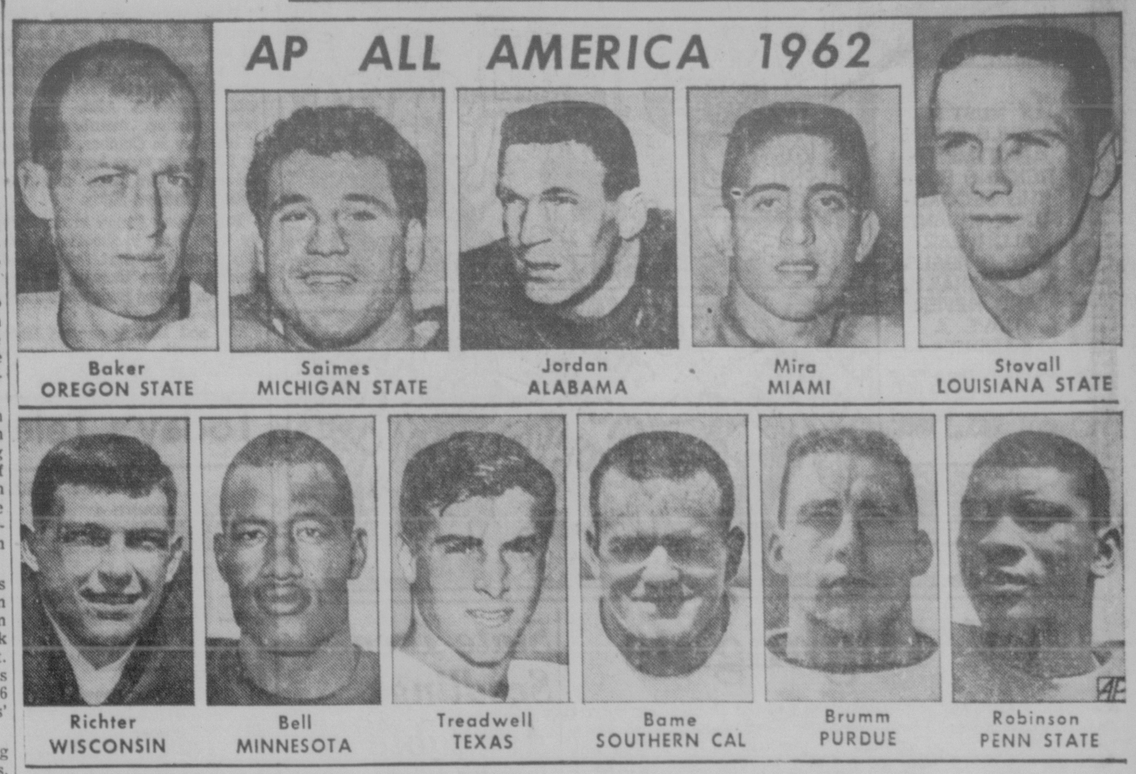

"I always was interested in the ministry," says Armstrong, thinking back to his boyhood in Mississippi and St. Louis.

"We were a religious family, but I wanted to be a fighter to make enough money to go to school."

Armstrong now accepts invitations to preach when he's not busy working with boys. He will move to Omaha, Neb., next year to do religious work and supervise the athletic program at a new boy's club.

But Armstrong still looks to the day when he can have his own church.

"When I have that church, I will be satisfied," he says.

Packers' Taylor Is After Record

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

BY THE time the National Football League teams end their regular schedule of 14 games on Dec. 16, pile driving Jim Taylor of the champion Green Bay Packers figures to have snapped the great rushing record made four years ago by Cleveland's Jimmy Brown.

For the last four years, Brown has paced the powerful NFL in individual rushing. In 1958 he gained a record 1,527 yards on 257 attempts. He averaged 5.9 yards per carry that season. Since then he has gained more than 1,250 yards per season.

But Taylor, in his fifth season with the Packers, seems better than ever. He is the new glamour man among the pros. The six-foot 205 pounder from Baton Rouge, La., already has surpassed the Packer yardage-gained record set by Tony Canadeo. After 11 seasons, Canadeo racked up 4,197 yards.

After his tenth game this fall, Taylor's career yardage total had passed the 4,100 mark.

The 17-year-old fullback who led the Southeastern Conference in scoring in 1956 and 1957 while at Louisiana State, was the No. 1 draft choice of the Packers in 1958.

Taylor started slowly, gained only a total of 699 yards for his first two campaigns as a pro. But in '60 he covered 1,101 yards. Last year his 1,307 yards was the highest figure any runnerup ever achieved.

Last December, when the Packers beat the Giants, 20-17, in Milwaukee to clinch the Western Conference title in the NFL, Taylor's last period score decided the battle. He had also scored earlier in the game.

Taylor went 1,121 yards in his first 10 games this season and at that rate will have totaled 1,569 yards.

"Don't ever get the idea it's all legs and power," says Packer coach Vince Lombardi. "Sure, Jim blasts past linebackers and crashes through defensive backs, but he'd never get those chances if he wasn't moving in the right direction at the right time, and using his blockers as he should.

"He hits the right hole at the right time. He also follows the right blocker—and he doesn't blow assignments."

With 15 touchdowns in his first 11 games, Taylor also seems headed for the league scoring championship. One of his great days came against the Chicago Bears when he tallied four touchdowns in a 38-7 victory. In his next two games he accounted for a total of four more touchdowns to take the scoring lead.

The tip is that nobody may catch his this season.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Friday, December 7, 1962

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Watch out for those tricky "wee" hazards and misleading opportunities. Don't follow blindly, but don't object consistently either. Talk it over with self.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Gains possible anywhere you really work for, and have faith in them. Some areas "tougher" to break through, but the rewards are back there. Build education.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Strong favorable Mercury aspect stresses mental accomplishment, brightened hope, invigoration generally. Put in your two, or twenty, words — and action.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Here time versus amount. Know when to say, "it will harm quality if I press too hard." Moon position augments your versatility and personality magnetism.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — May have many things on your mind, enough not to permit achievement in any if you do not concentrate better here, there. How to go about interests is half the battle.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — A new opening for your especial gifts of business acumen and insight into the character of a thing. Use all talents thoughtfully, bountiful awards in offing.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't wait too long to get started, nor make a problem out of what is merely a situation to be resolved with quick deliberation; day's tempters, Libra's foresight.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — One can be overwrought more readily these days so a word of caution: Begin with prayer, be practical about demands, do your work well but not with strained effort. And smile.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Beyond scope of your activities be less eager to venture, except where a new trend or activity shows tested value. IF YOU are the expert testing, sensibly follow rules.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Additional factors to make day an improvement over others would be gentleness, tactful approach, warmth of feeling for another's anxieties. Don't so seek reward and it comes.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — With planet Uranus in this aspect, it will be best to avert squabbles, to press for quicker healthy decisions to benefit all, and to sort values as smartly.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Much like Aquarius, but less tension likely because you are not so wont to step without looking or overplay your hand today. But be not caught off-guard by listlessness.

YOU BORN TODAY: Where you drive a bargain, it is usually a clever one, with corners cut, many things trimmed out. Herein take care not to ride over others or eliminate the necessary with the needless, which quickness can do. This Sign has managerial capacity, but is sometimes too frank. You are happiest when achieving and surrounded by friends and bright interests. Recognize those little details that must accompany the big doings, don't put them off. Suited to investment and real estate brokerage, law, politics, exploring. Master impatience, and the criticism we all tend to give at times. Next few weeks call for restraint, reviewing plans, revising income and or budget matters, tie easy on pleasures, avoid conclusion-jumping. Many gains you can have through your shrewdness, if you curtail blunt approach. Many just-great advantages ahead. Birthdate of: Heywood Broun, newspaper writer; Hon. John Swift, U. S. Supreme Court justice; Allen Cunningham, poet, man of letters.
